HOW LOGAN DEFEATED FOES AND WON BACK COMMAND

UNDERPAID TEACHERS QUIT BAY STATE

Serious Blow at Educational System Revealed by Commissioner Smith

Startling conditions in the educational system of the State were revealed today by Commissioner of Education Payson Smith at a hearing before the legislative Committee on Education. He said:

"Massachusetts with regard to the salaries paid its public school teachers is a poor and humiliating condition in a country. Massachusetts has a poor record than any other State of like source.

"There are nearly 2,000 lower grade public school teachers who receive less than $500 a year. Arizona, the 'Jolly State,' has a minimum salary of $1,200 for its teachers and West Virginia of $750.

KEY OF MONEY LENDERS.

"Many Massachusetts teachers are compelled to borrow money from the loan agencies to tide them over the summer. One loan agency advertises that it has done business with 120,000 Massachusetts school teachers in thirty years. And it charges a rate as high as 40 per cent. for a $50 loan. Every June and December they circularize the schools.

"Massachusetts is losing its teachers to other States which pay better salaries and will continue to lose until the wages here are raised.

"We are weakening our schools at the point where they ought to be strongest. A man or woman can go to a State where conditions are better, but a child can't. Teachers who trained our boys who went abroad to fight for us received less than a living wage."

Dr. Smith advocated a bill which would increase the minimum salary to $650 and which would establish a State school fund for the assistance of the "poorer" communities.

EDUCATORS FOR BILL.

The bill was indorsed by Albert Robinson, superintendent of Beverly schools and president of the Massachusetts Superintendents' Association; J. F. Scully, superintendent of Brockton schools and president of the City Superintendents' Association; Principal Avery of the Somerville High School, representing the Massachusetts High School Masters' Club, and by many other city and town school officials.

The opposition will come from the city and town counsel of those communities which assert that they should not be made to contribute to the support of the municipalities which "neglect" the schools.

HERO'S WELCOME FOR BRIG.-GEN. COLE

CHARGES LAWYER DEFRAUDED A SCRUB WOMAN

Alleging that Winfield Scott Patterson, a Boston attorney, induced Mrs. Margaret Brennan, a scrubwoman, to invest $2,500 in worthless real estate mortgage, the Boston Bar Association has petitioned the Superior Court to take action against Patterson.

The husband of Mrs. Brennan, Michael Brennan, was fatally injured at his employment, and Mrs. Brennan retained Patterson to obtain compensation under the workman's act. The Industrial Accident Board awarded Mrs. Brennan $2,500, and at the suggestion of Patterson it was alleged she invested in what was represented to her to be a first-class real estate mortgage, but which proved to be worthless.

Mrs. Brennan sued Patterson for the amount, and a jury in the Superior Court gave her a verdict of $2,464. Judgment was ordered on the verdict and the same has not been satisfied, says the Bar Association.

POLICE BEGIN ANNUAL LISTING OF VOTERS

Police listing for voters and for poll taxes began today, according to the custom always in force on April 1. The entire police force is engaged in the work, and the name, age, occupation and residence of each voter is taken. The police this year are also listing the blind, as a matter of accommodation to the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind. Names of all blinds addresses and age and whether the person can read or write constitute this information. Men in the service, whether in this country or not, are being listed at their former residence, and the names of women voters are also being verified.

Remember VENUS Pencils
Remember VENUS Pencils —Adv.

Wounded "Y. D." men were prominent today in the welcome extended to Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole, who was formally received by city and State officials at City Hall, the State House and Boston Common.

It was a veritable procession of triumph for the returned leader.

General Cole reached City Hall about 11 a. m., where the formal welcome of the city was extended to him. As the general and Mayor Peters met the former exclaimed:

"Boston looks good to me."

"You look good to Boston," responded the Mayor.

There was a general handshaking between the general and city officials, after which General Cole, escorted by Alexander Whiteside, corporation counsel, left City Hall to visit Liberty Cottage on the Common.

He was stopped ten or fifteen times on the short trip from School street by friends who wanted to shake hands.

When the general entered Liberty Hall the naval band struck up "Hail, Hail, the gang's All Here."

General Cole laughed. "That's the tune to which the 104th Infantry went over the top at Apremont," he remarked.

He was greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eliot Ware, and Mrs. L. E. Kirstein presented him a bouquet. Forty or fifty Yankee Division men, including a number of wounded, were lined up to shake hands with the famous leader.

In commenting on the changes which had taken place in the city during his absence, General Cole praised the roads, saying they were far superior to those of France.

General Cole will be guest of honor tonight at a dinner at the Copley Plaza, to be given by Governor Coolidge. The guests will include Governors of other New England States, mayors of Massachusetts cities, consuls of France, Belgium, England, Italy, Russia and Portugal. Rear-Admiral Spencer S. Wood, commandant of the First Naval District, and General McCain, commanding at Camp Devens, have been invited.

GREEKS IN FITCHBURG SEND CABLE TO WILSON

Fitchburg, April 1.—One hundred Greek residents of this city paid $68.25 to cable President Wilson in Paris an appeal to prevent alleged attempts to subject the people of Greece, Smyrna and Thrace to the rule of the Turks and Moslems.

'Help the Poor Sailor at Sea Tonight,' Sang the Merry Crew

This is April Fool's Day.

Anybody who wants it can have it.

It's the regular thing this day to run an April Fool yarn. Same as Kriss Kringle stuff on Christmas, the annual wheeze about the Ground Hog on His day, etc., ad lib.

An April Fool's Day story, of course, should be all about April Fools and foot tricks, and so on.

Well, once upon a time——

It was a dark and stormy night. In a small village on the down-town bank of the Sandusky River a little child was growing to larger size.

It does seem, what with the increasing prices of all necessities, as though the head of the average family would fail to meet the problem of living more and more.

Dispatches from Chicago today announced that voting at city election was early and often. The Massachusetts House of Representatives has killed the so-called Arlington street subway station bill. It also appears that Eddie King has joined the Braves at Columbus, down in the state where everything is (or are) peaches.

But," asks the reader, "what the Sam Hill has all this to do with April Fool's Day?"

We don't know, either.

April Fool.

WRECKED OFF COAST IN GALE

Lost: Somerville Man Captain

Hope has been abandoned for the Boston tug Charles W. Parker, Jr., which is believed to have sunk off Atlantic City, N. J., with Captain J. C. Catharin of Somerville and sixteen other officers and men, mostly from this city.

Nothing has been heard of the boat since yesterday, although mine sweepers and revenue cutters have been pressed into service to search the seas where the Parker was last seen.

The two Boston barges, the Baltimore and the Maryland, which the Parker was bringing home from Baltimore, were saved.

The Parker came to grief during the gale which lashed the North Atlantic Coast Saturday and Sunday. The crew of the tug was obliged to cut loose from the barges for mutual safety, and while the sturdily-built barges drifted in toward Jersey shore and were finally saved by mine sweepers, the tug was carried toward the open sea.

The Parker, which was owned by the New England Fuel & Transportation Company of Boston, left Norfolk, Va., last Wednesday. The last time it can be said with certainty that she was seen was when the crew of the steamer Machinosai sighted her during the worst of Saturday's gale. At that time the Parker was almost dismantled, but her crew gave no sign that they wished to be taken off.

PRESIDENT WARNS THE PREMIERS

If Peace Results Are Not Soon Forthcoming, He Will Tell the World the Reason Why

Berlin, via Copenhagen and London, April 1.—Allied troops that will begin a campaign against the Hungarian Bolsheviks have arrived at Constanza, Rumania, according to advices from Bucharest today, quoting Rumanian newspapers.

British and Italian troops have arrived at Pressburg, fourteen miles southeast of Vienna, and have occupied all the railway lines in the vicinity preliminary to joining the military action against the Reds. The Serbians are preparing to intervene also.

Constantinople, via London, April 1.—The Turkish government was informed by the allies today that peace terms will be communicated shortly. The Turkish government was urged to take measures to prevent outbreaks when the terms are made public.

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
Correspondent of the International News Service.

Paris, April 1. — President Wilson told the representatives of the associated powers today that he would place no blame on either Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau or Premier Orlando for peace conference delays, but would let results speak for themselves, it was understood this afternoon.

This declaration was made in connection with the President's request for greater speed in dealing with problems affecting Germany.

If results were not attained, it would

THIRTEEN COAL MINERS ENTOMBED BY EXPLOSION

Aguilar, Col., April 1.—Thirteen coal miners are entombed in the Empire mine near here as the result of a gas explosion.

Belief is expressed that all of those entombed are dead, as the two helmet crews sent into the workings after the explosion had not returned.

There were thirty-six men in the mine when the explosion took place.

Late Cable Bulletins!

London, April 1.—The Russian Bolshevik army is losing ground all the way along the eastern front, it was admitted in a wireless dispatch from Moscow today. The Red army was forced to retire in the Pskov and Marienburg districts, while the anti-Bolshevik troops captured several villages north of the Donetz.

Berlin, April 1.—The coal miners of the Ruhr district have formed a new organization, and one of their demands is the immediate amalgamation with the Russian government. "A general strike has been declared for tomorrow.

Copenhagen, April 1.— The Ukrainians have defeated the Russian Bolsheviks at Borodianka and are moving on Kiev (the Ukrainian capital), according to an official Ukrainian statement.

Paris, April 1.—The first meeting of the German financial mission and the allied mission was held today. The question of assets and liabilities was taken up.

'END STRIKE OR SEND US BACK TO ITALY'

Lawrence, April 1.—Federal interference to end the textile strikes here or else their passports back to their homeland are the alternatives presented to the government by a set of resolutions adopted by several thousand Italian strikers today.

The resolutions have been referred to the general strike committee for indorsement and transmission to Washington. The Italians constitute the most numerous and powerful of the racial elements now on strike.

The resolutions declare that technicalities prevent free emigration of the Lawrence workers back to their own lands. The resolutions are in line with others adopted by Russian Lithuanian workmen, who referred to their native Russia as "The golden land of liberty."

Dr. James Peter Warbasse, president of the Consumers' League of America, was in Lawrence today to give the striking operatives expert advice on co-operative buying and the conduct of their soup kitchens.

WAR RESTRICTIONS ON PACKERS REMOVED

Washington, April 1.—All war time restrictions on the packing industry have been removed by order of President Wilson, the food administration announced today.

ALLIES JOIN FORCES IN NORTH RUSSIA

London, April 1.—The Omsk and Archangel fronts have been linked up by the allied forces, said a dispatch from Omsk. Siberian troops on skis travelled for miles over the snow to join the Russian and allied troops in the north.

OUTWITS GENERAL BAMFORD

Col. Logan Upsets Scheme to Oust Him Permanently From 101st Command

How Colonel Edward L. Logan of the 101st Regiment outwitted those who plotted his downfall as regimental commander was revealed today by documents which arrived in this city from France.

Colonel Logan's own defence from the charge of "inertia," upon which he was summarily relieved of the command of the 101st, only to be vindicated subsequently and restored to his command, is shown in the formal brief or legal-military reply he filed with the trial board when he was removed.

Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole of the 52d Brigade, who has just returned from France, said when he arrived home that Colonel Logan was removed by Brigadier-General Bamford, commanding general of the Division, who had known Colonel Logan barely more than two hours.

REFUSED A HEARING.

It further appears, that Colonel Logan was removed without any military form required in such cases. He requested a hearing to vindicate himself.

Colonel Logan's brief shows that, when he asked for a hearing, he was told that the board he required could not be convened.

The Colonel's answer to the brief which scheduled the charges against him, defendant's efficiency and efficiency of the 101st Regiment

FICIAL ORDERS ON ADMISSION TO PIER WHEN Y. D. BOYS ARRIVE

EGULATIONS TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED AT DEBARKATION

Elaborate arrangements have been made by the military authorities for the regulation of admissions to Commonwealth Pier during the debarkation and entraining of homecoming overseas units.

These arrangements are made with a particular eye to the concerning interest in the arrivals of Yankee Division units, beginning with those on the Mt. Vernon due to leave next Friday.

Colonel A. W. Yates, Quartermaster Corps, made known this general and special orders issued by Colonel Thomas L. Brewer, provost marshal. The orders are issued by the Provost Guard as follows:

GENERAL ORDERS.

1. Entrance to the pier will be made by one or both of the westerly doorways, lower and upper decks, depending upon accommodations necessity therefor, but in the absence of notice, the lower entrance only will be used.

2. All visitors desiring to pier on debarkation days will be identified by passes in their possession stamped with headquarters, Northeastern Department seal and signed by the department adjutant.

3. The following parties, as a whole, will be admitted to the pier who will occupy parts of the vestibule of the passenger gangways as may be indicated at the time by the debarkation officer:

(a) The commanding general.
(b) The commandant, First Naval District.
(c) The governors' parties.
(d) The mayors' parties.

4. All visitors other than those mentioned in Paragraph 3, supra, will be required to remain within the roped areas.

5. Members of the press who land from the "Press Boat" or the "Monitor" will, unless equipped with cameras, be retained within the Press roped area. Camera work will be permitted on the side and end stringer pieces at such points as will not interfere with the docking of vessels and debarkation work.

6. Members of the "Red Cross" in uniform and identified individually by passes, will be permitted to distribute coffee and buns from carts directly to troops as they are mustered on the pier.

7. Four persons each from the following welfare agencies in uniform and bearing individual passes, will be admitted to the pier for the purpose of distributing supplies, but will be required to remain within the roped area during their stay:

(a) Knights of Columbus.
(b) Jewish Welfare Board.
(c) Young Men's Christian Association.
(d) War Camp Community Service.
(e) Salvation Army.

8. Naval officers and men and yeomen (f) in uniform with passes will be admitted to the pier over the same conditions that pertains to ordinary visitors. This also applies to members of the military service, U. S. A.

MUST SHOW PASSES.

9. Quartermaster employees, identified by the usual badges, will be permitted free access to the debarkation areas on the Pier when actually engaged in work thereon.

10. All persons seeking admittance to the Pier, and whether from the "Press Boat" or Monitor, will be required to produce passes, and if any visitors are found upon the Pier without such, they will be politely requested to leave; if necessary will be escorted from it.

11. No smoking under any circumstances will be permitted on the stringer pieces, the entrances to or within the shed enclosure or on the railroad cars during their presence on the Pier.

12. Officers and enlisted men of the Provost Guard are charged with the execution of these general orders, but in their execution bear in mind that courtesy under all circumstances is intended and expected and the use of force forbidden, except upon the direct order of an officer of the guard or debarkation officer known to the sentry.

By authority of the debarkation officer.

THOMAS L. BREWER,
Colonel, Infantry Provost Marshal.
Official:
EDWARD J. HICKEY,
Major, Infantry Assistant, Provost Marshal.

ORDERS FOR PROVOST GUARD—DEBARKATIONS AND ENTRAINMENTS—COMMONWEALTH PIER.
SPECIAL ORDERS
ORDERS FOR SENTRIES IN THE STREETS.

1.—Sentinels will keep sufficient way clear on the sidewalk and in the surrounding vicinity of the permit pier and vehicle traffic in both directions. They will see that pedestrians and vehicles continue across all railroad tracks until outside of the line of sentinels.

2.—Sentinels will keep pedestrians clear of railroad tracks and at a sufficient distance therefrom to prevent the possibility of accident, particular heed being observed when trains are backing on to the pier.

3.—Actual distances will be prescribed when men are posted.

ORDERS FOR SENTRIES AT HEADS OF PIER.

1.—No person will be permitted to enter or leave the pier without proper authority.

2.—Proper authority includes:

(a) Passes from department headquarters, referred to in par. 2, G. O., pertaining to this service.

(b) The order of an officer of the guard.

(c) The order of an officer wearing headquarters bassard or of the inspector general's department.

(d) The order of the personnel adjutant or debarkation officer.

(e) Orders of officers wearing the brassards of the Q. M. C., Nos. 1 to 6 inclusive.

(f) Orders of the port surgeon with reference to ambulances, their crews and members of the Medical Corps detachment.

(Under "b" to "f," inclusive, persons will be admitted on official business only.)

3. Mr. O'Neil of the White Star Steamship lines, when commercial vessels for which he is agent, or both are docked, is authorized to pass workmen connected with the docking of the ships on and off the pier.

4. In case of doubt as to proper action at any time, refer to the officer of the guard, stationed at the entrance to the pier.

ORDERS FOR SENTRIES AT TRAINS.

1. Sentinels will prevent unauthorized parties from boarding cars. They will pass through those admitted by them and prevent smoking in them or on their platforms, while the train remains on the Pier.

2. Sentinels will also prevent men from passing from one car to another after they have once been passed into the coaches by the officer in charge of entrainment, and will not permit them to stand on the platforms or block the doorways.

3. Sentinels at trains will permit no person to board the cars, unless in the presence of the officer connected with the entrainment.

4. Officers of the guard and train men will be the only persons permitted on the cars until the soldiers are properly established thereon.

ORDERS FOR SENTRIES AT ELEVATORS AND STAIRWAYS.

1. Passage either up or down the stairways or elevator by any persons not directly connected with the debarkation service on debarkation days is prohibited, except when the upper deck is in use and it is necessary to pass some down to the lower deck for entraining.

ORDERS FOR SENTRIES AT THE GANGPLANK.

1—Members of the various parties indicated in paragraph 2, General Orders, are authorized the use of the gangway, the pier near the gangway, passenger, as may be indicated by the debarkation officer stationed thereat.

2—No persons will be permitted to leave the ship until actual debarkation starts, except those connected with the port debarkation service and those passed by the officer at the gangway.

3—No one will be permitted to board the ship except officials connected with the debarkation service, members of the customs service in the performance of their duty and of the emigration service in the performance of their duty when identified.

4—No persons will be permitted to leave or board the ship by means of gangway for baggage, except those actually engaged in its handling.

5—In case of doubt, call for nearest officer of the provost guard.

Who's Who in the 26th Division

BRIG.GEN. C. H. COLE.

Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole, who returned to Boston yesterday from France to assist in the preparations for the reception to the 26th Division, was commanding the 52d Infantry Brigade until he left for this country. General Cole has always been active in military affairs. He is 47 years of age and married. From 1898 to 1900 he was with the First Corps Cadets of this city. After serving on the Governor's staff for one year ending January 4, 1906, as inspector-general of rifle practice, he went back to the First Corps Cadets November 20, 1906 and served as captain and major. He was appointed brigadier-general June 8, 1916, and retired August 5, 1916. On April 24, 1917, he enlisted as a private in Headquarters Company of the Ninth Massachusetts Infantry and the following day was made a captain and adjutant on account of his experience. Mr. Cole lives at No. 131 Longwood avenue, Brookline. He has served the city of Boston in various capacities, including fire and police commissioner. He is a business man.

PARADE OF Y. D. MAY BE HELD APRIL 30

Over Half of the 26th Now on the Way Home; Others to Follow Soon

The parade of the 26th Division may be arranged for April 30, according to a statement today by Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff of the Northeastern Department.

Colonel Williams said the date would depend upon the arrival of the transports.

April 30 would mean a big saving for the government as every delay of a day in having the parade means an additional expense of many thousands of dollars.

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, commanding the Northeastern Department, telegraphed from Maine today to Colonel Williams, to communicate with the transports as soon as possible and find out the names of those boys in the units of the 26th Division who come from other parts of the country besides New England that desire to be in the parade and those boys who want to be demobilized as soon as possible.

These names will be kept on file at army headquarters.

General Edwards expects the Mt. Vernon will not arrive until Saturday night, and it will not be necessary for him to curtail his Maine tour, as he will return Sunday morning.

Captain Walter Halstrom of the office of the adjutant-general is registering all those who desire to parade, though not living in New England. He is also listing all discharged and casuals of the 26th Division.

Transports Bearing Men of 26th to Be Given Noisy Welcome in Bay

Nearly 20,000 of the men of the 26th Division are already on the seas, speeding for home.

The Mt. Vernon is due here Saturday, according to the latest reports. The Governors of all six New England States were invited to meet the Mt. Vernon down the harbor, on the official steamship of greeting—the Mayflower. This, because the Mt. Vernon brings not only the first of the 26th, but 30,000 other New England and the division headquarters, representing all the six States.

FINAL SAILING ON APRIL 8.

The Agamemnon is expected Sunday. On Monday the America is due. The balance of the division is to come on the Mongolia, scheduled to leave France on April 3, the George Washington two or three days afterward, and the last of the division on the Matsonia, to leave Brest April 5.

Every one of these six transports will be welcomed as none other arriving at any American port has been. Each time they are sighted off Boston Light, until the officers and men on board are landed safe at Camp Devens, there will be a noisy, screeching succession of all forms of greeting, according to committee plans.

A fleet of sixteen welcoming boats will escort them up the harbor.

Four swift destroyers and two cruisers are to steam off shore to meet each transport.

The Monitor, the official boat of welcome, will lead the procession of welcoming boats, then the Halcyon II. (the official press boat, which will carry reporters and photographers from newspapers all over New England) and fourteen other steamers will follow.

MAINE GREETS EDWARDS AS HERO

Former Commander of 26th at Augusta in Triumphal Tour of State

Augusta, Me., April 1.—Major-General Clarence R. Edwards began here today a triumphal tour of Maine, whose old 2nd Regiment infantry followed him along the French battlefront as part of the Yankee Division.

As the capital of the State, Augusta gave General Edwards a welcome such as few men have received here to one man. He was met at the railroad station at 3 o'clock by a legislative reception committee, a city reception committee, singing schoolchildren and a guard of honor of twenty-five former members of the 26th Division who had served under him overseas.

Business was suspended at 1 o'clock. The schools were closed. The city was ablaze with decorations. The flags of the allies floated over the State House.

In the State House, General Edwards and staff were received by Governor Carl E. Milliken and the Executive Council, then were escorted to the House chamber, where General Edwards spoke for three-quarters of an hour on the work of the Yankee Division, with special mention of the former 2d Maine Infantry, now part of the 103d Infantry, which is homeward bound.

102ND FIELD ARTILLERY AT SEA ON WAY HOME

Lieutenant Maurice Kinney. A cable announcing the departure of the artillery brigade was received at the headquarters of the Northeastern Department today.

In addition to the 51st Artillery Brigade, which will return on the Mongolian, there will be the 101st Field Artillery, 102d Field Artillery, 103d Field Artillery and Brigade Headquarters. This will make a total contingent of about 209 officers and 4,795 men.

The French Mortar Battery has already returned to this country.

Colonel Herbert Sails With 102d Field Artillery From Brest for Boston

Worcester, April 1.—The 102d Field Artillery sailed yesterday from Brest, two weeks ahead of schedule.

This information is contained in a cablegram received by Mrs. John F. J. Herbert from Colonel Herbert, commander of the unit, which reads: "Regiment leaving Brest March 31 for Boston. All well."

The 102nd Field Artillery is made up of batteries recruited principally in Worcester, Lawrence and New Bedford, and was one of the seasoned artillery units kept almost constantly in the front line.

The big other artillery unit that will be on the transport Mongolian, there will be the 101st Field Artillery, 102d Field Artillery, 103d Field Artillery and Brigade Headquarters. This will make a total contingent of about 209 officers and 4,795 men.

Colonel Herbert Sails With 102d Field Artillery From Brest for Boston

Worcester, April 1.—The 102d Field Artillery sailed yesterday from Brest, two weeks ahead of schedule.

This information is contained in a cablegram received by Mrs. John F. J. Herbert from Colonel Herbert, commander of the unit, which reads: "Regiment leaving Brest March 31 for Boston. All well."

The 102nd Field Artillery is made up of batteries recruited principally in Worcester, Lawrence and New Bedford, and was one of the seasoned artillery units kept almost constantly in the front line.

The big other artillery unit that will be on the transport Mongolian, there will be the 101st Field Artillery, 102d Field Artillery, 103d Field Artillery and Brigade Headquarters. This will make a total contingent of about 209 officers and 4,795 men.

The French Mortar Battery has already returned to this country.

Faints When Freed in Dorchester Shooting Case

In the Dorchester Court today, Arthur M. Graham of No. 61 Linden street, Dorchester, was absolved of blame in connection with the shooting of John Watson. Application for a murder warrant made to Judge Churchill by Sergeant Daniel Hines of Station 11 was refused. Watson, who lived at No. 5 Ellet street, Dorchester, was employed as a stable hand by Edward Curan of No. 4 Melville street, Dorchester. Graham was employed there as a chauffeur. While handling an automatic revolver yesterday afternoon, a shot was fired by accident. The bullet struck Watson in the chest, causing instant death.

Graham was deeply grieved and when released from the dock upon order of the court, he fainted in the arms of Court Officer John Halligan. He was taken away in the automobile of Mr. and Mrs. Curran, his employers.

ALLIED FORCES MOVING ON HUNGARY

be necessary to tell the world why, Mr. Wilson contended.

There was no bitterness in the statement. It was merely a frank expression in which it was urged that all possible technical argument be eliminated from the discussions.

The deepest interest is taken here in the proposed amendments to the League of Nations covenant suggested by Elihu Root. Members of the American commission examined them today and said that they believed that a majority of the objections that had been raised have already been met. Others will be found to have been met when the revised covenant of the league is available. The clause supporting the Monroe Doctrine has also been met, however. President Wilson is retaining his own views on this matter, and is expected to press them when the full League of Nations commission meets again.

France Demands Greater Guarantees; Clemenceau to Appeal for "Justice"

By JOHN T. PARKERSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, April 1.—The intimation that President Wilson may make public the views of the United States delegation on the question of reparations unless an agreement is speedily reached has broken down the bars, and today it was rumored that Premier Clemenceau might appeal to world justice in behalf of French claims.

According to the outlook of the premier, the public would sustain him. In French official circles it is pointed out that France is ready to make any reasonable sacrifice for the allies with whom she has fought, but she insists upon having guarantees in addition to the League of Nations. In this connection French statesmen feel that the best guarantees would be a change in mentality on the part of the Germans themselves.

But thus far there has been little evidence of this result. Indeed, from well-founded reports reaching Paris, Count Karolyi, former head of the Hungarian government before the Bolsheviki got control, and Dr. Rantzau, the present German Foreign Minister, plotted the Hungarian revolution with an object of testing the entente's strength. There is further evidence in the fact that Ludendorff was recently given an ovation in Berlin.

WALSH WARNS OF JAPANESE SITUATION

Continued Colonizing in Mexico Would Cause Apprehension, Says Senator

Boston hope that the United States government would thoroughly investigate reports of Japanese encroachment of land in Mexico. Such would leave nothing undone to protect American rights was expressed today by United States Senator David I. Walsh.

Senator Walsh read with interest a Universal Service dispatch which states that the State Department is prosecuting a vigorous inquiry into reports from Mexico that Japan without Japanese official sanction are colonizing in Mexico in flagrant violation of the Monroe Doctrine.

"I am not sufficiently familiar with all the recent developments in the Japanese question to comment upon them," said Senator Walsh. "But when I was in Washington last year I learned from some of the Senators that they had received communications from Japanese residents of California in which he expressed considerable alarm at the Japanese movement.

"I sincerely hope that the government will make a thorough investigation into reports of alleged encroachment of Japanese colonization in Mexico and leave nothing undone to protect American rights."

"What, in your opinion, would be the result if the Japanese succeeded in establishing themselves?" he was asked.

"I should expect that if the Japanese persisted in their policy of organization in violation of the Monroe Doctrine a serious relationship would exist between our country and Japan," was the reply.

State Department Ready to Protect U. S. Interests From Japanese Menace

By International News Service.

Washington, April 1. — The State Department was awaiting a report from the American embassy at Mexico City on the "actual facts and circumstances" surrounding the reported acquisition by the Japanese government of lands in Lower California to Japanese interests.

The report was expected, and was expected not later than tomorrow, and upon its contents would depend the future course of the department.

Although officials of the department were loath to discuss the situation, it was apparent that they would not be greatly surprised if the embassy report revealed that there had been some misunderstanding.

They were not accepting as authentic press dispatches telling of the activities of Luis Cabrera Aguirre, the Mexican under secretary of agriculture, of the commission.

On the other hand, it appears that in the event of the official reports corroborating the press dispatches, and the Japanese actually acquiring the property of the California Mexican Land Company of Lower Mexico, very definite action would be taken. It is understood that the department is also making plain that it has no official reason for believing that the terms of the contract, as asked it for a statement, which word is received from the American embassy at Mexico City, is a well-founded reports reaching Paris, Count Karolyi, former head of the Hungarian government before the Bolsheviki got control, and Dr. Rantzau, the present German Foreign Minister, plotted the Hungarian revolution with an object of testing the entente's strength. There is further evidence in the fact that Ludendorff was recently given an ovation in Berlin.

HISTORY of the YANKEE DIVISION

by HARRY A. BENWELL

26TH WAS FIRST COMPLETE DIVISION TO SAIL FROM U. S. FOR FRANCE

This is the third installment of the "History of the Yankee Division," which began in the Sunday Advertiser and American of March 30. The first and second installments contained a tribute to the division by Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, who organized it up to within a short time of the end of the war. They also described the organization of the 26th from the old National Guard units, and gave the original orders of General Edwards officially bringing the Yankee Division into being.

(Copyright, 1919, by the New England Newspaper Publishing Company.)

CHAPTER II.

EXPANDS ALL UNITED STATES UNITS

In ordering the organization of the division, the War Department had asked General Edwards if he could ship part of it the first of September and part the 15th. He replied that he could ship all by the first of September. They again wired asking: "Are you reasonably sure?" to which the general replied: "I am not reasonably sure; I am certain."

Prior to this war the largest regiment in American service contained 2,000 men, which was 600 larger than anything we had had in actual practice. The new organization required 1,000 men in every battalion, and very nearly 1,000 men in the Headquarters, Machine Gun and Supply Companies, making little less than 4,000 men in a regiment. Those 4,000 men per regiment meant a bigger regiment, of greater strength than the largest brigade United States army officers had ever thought of. The brigade was some 7,800 men, and the division about 32,000, greater than an army corps in the Civil War.

The command was virtually organized in forty-eight hours, day and night work, and this accomplishment was largely due to the co-operation furnished by the press of Boston and New England. In the words of General Edwards, "everybody played the game." After taking 100 integral numbers for what the regular army might expand in, it took twenty-five numbers of the regular army, and, therefore, the division became the Twenty-sixth.

General Edwards found it necessary to take a large number of coast artillerymen, and for this he was criticised by the War Department. He said he was very sorry, but they had sailed, whereupon the War Department replied: "In the next war don't you dare do it again." He also took some draft men from Camp Devens.

Division Units Were Scattered

The division was not concentrated at any one point, and as a matter of fact never came together as a whole unit it entered the front line in France. Division Headquarters, with the Headquarters Troop and 101st Field Signal Battalion, as well as the 101st Engineers, were at Boston. Framingham was headquarters of the Twenty-first Infantry Brigade, the 101st Infantry and the 102nd Machine Gun Battalion. The 102nd Infantry was at New Haven, Ct., the 103rd Machine Gun Battalion was at Quonset Point, R. I., the 101st Machine Gun Battalion at Niantic, Ct., while the whole of the Forty-second Infantry Brigade was at Westfield, Mass., and the 101st artillery at Boxford.

General Edwards made almost daily inspections of the camps, and on every occasion exhorted the men to pull together. He inspired the officers with his spirit and they made frequent speeches to the men, dwelling on the value of teamwork and discipline.

As soon as the division was formed, General Edwards notified the War Department and Camp Greene, N. C., was specified as a concentration point. A sergeant and ten men were sent down to Camp Greene to locate divisional headquarters.

In the meantime the general, who overlooked nothing, had sent an officer to Hoboken to see what could be done in the way of securing transports. This officer reported that there were no boats available and there would be none in the near future as it was the intention of the War Department to send over first the Forty-second (Rainbow) Division, it being made up of men from a large number of States, and being considered representative.

Beat All Other Divisions to France

General Edwards refused to be discouraged by this report, and called into conference one of his aides, Captain A. L. Pendleton, a young regular army officer with the reputation of doing things, and who later became a lieutenant-colonel. Here follows one of the most interesting stories in the history of the division.

As a result of the initiative and enterprise of General Edwards and Captain Pendleton, the division was enabled to get away before the Forty-second, and was therefore, the first full American division to reach France. Practically the First Division had gone over with General Pershing, but several units were absent.

Captain Pendleton arrived at Hoboken with personal letters of introduction to General Shanks, commanding the port, and Colonel Carson, in charge of assignments of troops to ships. Captain Pendleton was assured by the two officers that no boats would be available in the near future, due to the fact that all coming in were to be reserved for the use of the regular army and special units of the Forty-second Division.

Captain Pendleton patiently explained that the Twenty-sixth was fully organized and ready to move, which, he said, he did not think was true of others. He was again assured that the War Department had established these priorities and they would have to stand.

Undismayed by these statements, the young aide went forth to see what might be done. He made the acquaintance of Major Hambleton, adjutant to General Shanks, and the two soon became great friends. Each found much to admire in the other.

Pendleton spent much time with the major and impressed on him the fact that the Twenty-sixth Division was ready to move and that transports must be secured at all costs.

"Boston's Own" First to Depart

Major Hambleton confidentially kept the captain posted on what boats would be available in the near future, and as there were no representatives from other units on the ground, the Twenty-sixth benefited.

One day Captain Pendleton was suddenly notified that four boats would be available in three days, the Tenadores, Pastores, Mallory and Lenape. He was further advised that the units for which they were intended were not ready to take them and was asked if he could use them for the Twenty-sixth.

He replied that he could use all he could get even on short notice. He said that the division was ready to go to France and the men wanted to get away.

Captain Pendleton called General Edwards on the telephone and told him that he could secure four boats. He asked the general to please have the Chief of Staff advise what units were to go first. In half an hour the Chief of Staff called up and gave him the assignments, which he handed to Colonel Carson. Colonel Carson was surprised as well as gratified at the quick action.

The unit which had the honor of being the first to go was the 101st Infantry, "Boston's Own," regiment.

Major George C. Cole of the Division Quartermaster Staff, who was with Captain Pendleton, got in touch with representatives of the American Railway Association at Hoboken, and in conference arranged for the reception of the troops at the 135th street station. He also arranged for the ferrying of troops and baggage around to the Hoboken docks. Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph W. Beacham, Jr., divisional quartermaster, did excellent work at the Boston end, arranging the movement of troops here.

Last "Visitors' Day" at Camps

It had been announced through the press that the previous Sunday would be "Visitors' Day." On that occasion thousands of relatives and friends of the soldiers flocked to the different camps, many of them feeling that this would be the last opportunity they would have to see their loved ones.

At Framingham there was an address by Governor McCall in the name of Massachusetts, and Cardinal O'Connell gave the men his blessing. At Westfield there was a parade, and it was estimated that 100,000 civilians were present, and like conditions obtained at Boxford and other camps.

At noon of September 6 Colonel Logan of the 101st issued the order turning the men out in full marching equipment, ready to entrain.

Starting at midnight troop trains in various sections began rolling into New York. The men got off the trains at the 135th street station and took the freight out of the baggage cars. They loaded it on lighters and then got aboard ferries, which moved them around to the Hoboken docks.

Here, with only a few devoted friends, including Boston officials, present, they were assigned to space aboard the transports, and in a short time were underway with no one in New York aware of what was happening.

The farewell to the 101st was brief, but the men carried the remembrance of it with them for many a day. Among those who saw the troops off were the late Postmaster William F. Murray, Surveyor of the Port of Boston Joseph A. Maynard, Colonel Logan's brother Malcolm, Congressman James A. Gallivan, Congressman John F. Fitzgerald, Willard R. Gallagher, and a number of others.

Departed to Strains of "Sweet Adeline"

This devoted little party embarked in a tug, and as the ships pulled out into the bay, steamed down the harbor with Fitzgerald singing "Sweet Adeline." The tug stayed with the transports until the Statue of Liberty was passed, and the troops said farewell to home and friends.

The 101st Infantry got away first, while other transports carried Major William N. Tennev's Field Hospital No. 1, Major Cisaries F. Mains' Ambulance Company No. 1, and Colonel John H. Sherburne's 101st Field Artillery.

Outside the boats joined other transports, and the whole were later picked up by a convoy and escorted across the submarine-infested ocean.

Colonel Carson was so pleased at the manner in which the situation was handled, he was disposed to give the Twenty-sixth Division all the transports to come in. He hesitated, however, because of priorities of other units.

After the departure of the first ships, Captain Pendleton returned to Boston for a conference with General Edwards and the Chief of Staff. He said he could get the boats as soon as they were available and only wanted a list of divisional units showing the sequence in which it was desired they depart. He also asked for the approximate strength in officers and men, as well as freight tonnage. This was quickly furnished.

Prepares Complete Schedule

He then went back to Hoboken and found out from Major Hambleton the tentative schedules of transports for the future, which were given confidentially. Major Hambleton also furnished the capacities of the boats for officers, men and cargo.

For his own amusement and in order to be prepared for the call for troops on short notice by Colonel Carson, Captain Pendleton made up a schedule assigning certain units to certain ships in accordance with the dates of arrival and departure, reconciled, of course, with General Edwards' sequence list.

As soon as this was finished Captain Pendleton conferred with Colonel Carson and showed him what he had done. He demonstrated how the colonel had been saved much thought and work, and this was appreciated.

When the next boats were available all the troops of the Forty-second Division had not yet arrived at their concentration camp, and the Twenty-sixth units were the only ones ready to move.

Again the Twenty-sixth got the transports, and they were loaded with the same success as before. The embarkation officials were highly delighted.

It was then that Captain Pendleton learned that English ships were available at Montreal. He prevailed on one of the embarkation officials to go there with him and look over the situation. They found one ship with large capacity ready to pull out. A conference was then held with the officials of the White Star and other lines, who offered prospects of immediate sailings of big ships.

Begin Using Ships from Montreal

Back again in Hoboken, Colonel Carson was informed of what had taken place, and it was arranged for Captain Pendleton to use ships out of Montreal. Colonel Carson and General Shanks arranged it through the War Department and our State Department and the Canadian government. By this move a number of ships were secured that no one had figured on.

The Canadian movements were cleverly arranged and executed. Canadian railroad and steamship officials had had so much experience that they handled American troop movements with excellent skill.

The Second Battalion of the 102nd Infantry, under Major Alcorn, was assigned to the Lenape, which had just returned from abroad after delivering some of the divisional troops. The Lenape was out three days from New York with this battalion when it had engine trouble. The boat wallowed in the trough of high seas until everyone was seasick, and then put back to port. The battalion was put ashore and the Fort Slocum authorities furnished tentage and took care of the men. They were later sent over on the Tunisian, sailing from Montreal on October 14th.

With the exception of this battalion, the last divisional unit to leave was the 101st Machine Gun Battalion, under command of Major James L. Howard of Hartford, Ct. The battalion left on the Megantic, which sailed from Montreal on October 10th. Captain Pendleton accompanied this battalion.

The entire division thus left New England, without anyone except those directly interested knowing anything about it.

While all this was going on, the New York papers were daily publishing stories, stating that the Forty-second Division was fully organized and equipped, and ready immediately to go abroad and be the first National Guard troops to arrive in France.

Loyal Press Kept Big Secret

The New England papers had loyally refrained from publishing anything about the Twenty-sixth Division, which all this time was quickly moving overseas.

It was generally believed by those few who saw the Twenty-sixth movements that the troops were on the way to Camp Greene, N. C., for training. For months afterward members of the division received mail which had been forwarded to them in France from Camp Greene. Although the division was in France in its training area, a great many people still believed that it was in North Carolina. In fact the division moved out so rapidly that the sergeant and ten men sent to Camp Greene were nearly left behind.

General Edwards and his staff sailed on September 25th on the commercial liner New York, which was not convoyed. They enjoyed an extremely pleasant trip. Later the Navy Department took over this boat, making it a transport, and General Edwards and Major Hyatt returned to the United States on it in November of the following year.

When the division was organized it had practically full equipment of animals, animal-drawn transport, motor transport and all other ordnance, signal corps and engineer equipment it was supposed to have. The War Department, however, refused to permit this to be taken along with the organization, but promised that it would be in France before the troops. In charge of a supply company it was sent to Newport News for shipment, and the division arrived at its training area with one Ford touring car, no animals, no wagons and two motor cycles.

PAJAMA STORY DENIED BY WITNESS

Mrs. McClure Sweetly Contradicts Husband's Attorney at Divorce Hearing

New York, April 1.—With a sweet suavity, smiling frequently when the spectators appeared pleased with her answers, pouting occasionally when Harold T. Marshall, her husband's attorney, did not, Mrs. Frances C. McClure sat in the witness chair and calmly denied every charge against her contained in H. H. McClure's suit for absolute divorce.

"All this testimony which we have heard of finding Neil R. White in your room, sitting on the edge of the bed in pajamas, is not correct," asked Marshall.

"It most certainly is not correct," responded Mrs. McClure.

"It is an invention, a pure invention?" asked Marshall, who was one of the four men who entered Mrs. McClure's apartment in the Hendrick Hudson and alleged Neil was discovered there with her.

"You know it is an invention, Mr. Marshall," said the witness in her sweetest manner and smiling at the lawyer. Marshall appealed to the court to direct that she answer yes or no to questions.

Mrs. McClure explained that White's presence in her room was for the purpose of getting her some headache cologne.

"You wanted to telephone to a lawyer and testified that I would not permit it?" questioned Marshall.

"Yes, Mr. Marshall," smiled Mrs. McClure. "And don't, you remember you gave me what you said was legal advice? You said it was a generally accepted principle of law that where a man and a woman were found together in a room they were not presumed to be there to say their prayers."

FISH PLAN CLOSES WAR IN MALDEN

tion American fish stores, selling at cost, have stirred up a tempest Malden.

The plans of Alden A. Mills, the sh expert, to open a store in that place are temporarily halted by the controversy going on between members of the city government and the Board of Trade.

Members of the city government have written to the Fish Editor of the American asking that Boston American fish stores be established there to provide the city with food at cost. At a recent meeting the Malden Board of Trade voted to oppose any introduction of fish at cost.

The Boston American fish stores are offering fish at 5 and 6 cents a pound in an effort to aid the public to reduce the cost of living and to popularize the use of fish seven days a week. It is giving the public a chance to laugh at profiteering retailers who are charging five and six hundred per cent. profit. But Boston American fish stores will not be established in any locality where the public does not wish them.

This movement is for the public. If the people of Malden feels that it wishes a Boston American Fish Store and fish at cost, which the Malden Board of Trade opposes, the people of Malden may have a store by letting the Fish Editor of the American know their wishes.

Convinced by the fact that the majority of the customers came from Hyde Park and from Dedham that the Roslindale store was not properly located, this store has been closed. A new store to better serve the needs of the public of Roslindale, Hyde Park and Dedham, will be opened shortly in a more convenient location.

NEW BOSTON STORE.

A new store is being planned for Boston proper to aid the Shawmut avenue store in serving the population of the city. Worcester, Lowell ad Nashua, N. H., continue to report at tons of fish are being disposed of daily.

Although the wholesale prices on trean fish rose steadily during the last twenty-four hours, due to the comparatively small supply which arrived, there will be no interference with the fish shipment Thursday for fish by express. A half barrel of orders, each inclosing a postal money order addressed to Alden A. Mills, No. 101 Tremont street, were received yesterday asking that twenty-pound boxes of fine freshly caught codfish and haddock be shipped. The orders came from every State in New England and from as far away as Eastport, Me.

It should be remembered that at present only codfish and haddock packed in twenty-pound boxes can be shipped in this way. Send a money order for $3.40, payable to Alden A. Mills, No. 101 Tremont street. You pay the express yourself. It should not amount to more than 40 cents anywhere in New England. Here is the supreme chance for all New England to get fine freshly-caught fish at cost!

GLOUCESTER WANTS MART.

Requests to open Boston American Fish Stores has been received from Gloucester, Mass., and Portland, Me., next to Boston the two greatest fishing ports of New England.

Retail prices quoted in these requests show that the retailers of these two cities where large quantities of fish are landed daily, are charging more than prevailing Boston retail rates. Both cities would welcome Boston American stores selling fish at 5 or 6 cents a pound.

Present conditions, however, do not permit of opening stores in either of these cities. Any orders for twenty-pound boxes received from them will be promptly filled.

The first shipment of fish by express will be made Thursday. Get your order in today! Eat fish daily and bring down the price of other food! If you eat fish for a week, and everyone else does the same, the price of meat will come down!

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

GEORGIA HAMILTON.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as nitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, nitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health. Miss Georgia Hamilton, who was once thin and frail, reporting her own experience, writes: "Nitro-Phosphate has brought about a magic transformation with me. I gained 10 pounds and never before felt so well."

CAUTION: — Although nitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

ALL FISH CATCH MARKS BROKEN IN 1918

More fish was delivered at the port of Boston last year than ever before in history, yet during that period fish to the consumer went to unprecedented prices.

The nearest approach to the gigantic catch of 1918 was in 1916, when fishermen landed 102,000,000 pounds in Boston.

Schooner owners and crews were able to force a slightly fairer division of the profits during 1918, and a number of ordinary fishermen got into the income tax class in a few trips to the fishing grounds. Schooners fishing out of Boston which made big money were the Francis Gruby, Captain Elsie Nickerson, $120,000; the Angelus, Captain Ernest Parsons, $107,000, and the Commonwealth, Captain Frank Watts, $101,000. The crews of these boats got between $2,000 and $3,500 per man.

'Asks Pink Leg as She Wears Openwork Stockings

London, April 1.—Harriet Goldstone, a munition worker at Bethnal Green, who lost a leg in an explosion last Summer, has applied to the Ministry of Pensions for a pink enamel leg instead of a brown leather number, because "I always wear openwork stockings."

According to the regulations it is "left to the discretion of the supervising surgeon" whether Harriet gets a pink or brown leg.

HOGS SELL AT $20, HIGH MARK AT CHICAGO YARDS

Chicago, April 1. — Hog prices touched the highest point this year in the Chicago market today when sales were made at $20. The best previous price was $19.10, made a year ago this month. A shortage of supply is given as the reason for the sensational advance.

YEOMAN (F) ASSIGNED TO CLERICAL WORK ASHORE

Miss Margaret Sharrey of Somerville, Yeoman (F), is attached to the district detail office and is doing clerical work for the commanding officer of the U. S. S. Kalk. She has not been assigned to sea duty on that vessel, according to the statement of Rear Admiral Wood. Admiral Wood states that he does not believe that it is the intention of the department to assign any Yeoman (F) to any ship for sea service, and that so far no women have been thus assigned.

HOLD ALLEGED ROBBERS IN DORCHESTER COURT

Two men in Dorchester Court today, charged with breaking and entering the store of John Rhodes at No. 417 Adams street and larceny of cigars valued at $36 and cigarettes valued at $3.65, gave their names as Joseph Farley, thirty-one years old of Mallet street, and George A. Fitzgerald, twenty-three years old, of Centre street. They waived examination and were held in $300 each for the Grand Jury.

ACCUSED ACID THROWER GOES TO TRIAL

Providence, April 1.—Charged with having thrown vitriol into the face of pretty Rose de Fusco to "oblige" the girl's husband, who told him it was a love potion, Private James Salerno was brought here from Camp Devens today to go on trial for assault with intent to kill.

Salerno's counsel, Attorney R. J. McMahon, stated that his client was innocent of any intention of wrongdoing and was an unconscious tool of Luigi Salsillo, the husband from whom the De Fusco girl was separated.

Salsillo is in custody and will go on trial in three weeks, charged with being an accessory before and after the fact to assault with intent to kill.

The defendant's story, as related by his counsel, was that on the night of December 29 last he was approached by Salsillo and told that the latter was despondent because his wife did not love him, and would not live with him.

The husband then introduced the strange love potion which could be applied externally, according to the defendant, and asked Salerno to accept the girl on her way to work and throw the liquid over her.

On the morning of December 30 Salerno did stop the De Fusco girl and her sister in Valley street and threw the biting vitriol into the faces of both, vanishing in a factory yard after he had accomplished it.

Salsillo was seen across the street watching the proceedings. The De Fusco girl's face was terribly burned and she may be disfigured for life.

it out and fail. Or, you can try the sensible, peaceful, painless, easy way and use "Gets-It." It's easy for "Gets-It" to remove corns, hard- to-get-at places. It's a liquid—a won- derful painless formula—it has never been successfully imitated. It settles on the corn, and dries immediately. Instead of digging, you simply apply it but painlessly. There's no sticky plaster that doesn't stay "put." No salve that irritates or rubs off. You reach the corn easily with the little glass rod in the cork of every "Gets- It" bottle. It does not hurt the true flesh. Try it, trot and smile! It's a swing, never fails.

which they would present to this board if present and testifying:

"Brigadier-General Bamford, com- manding general of the 26th Division, would testify if called on that he, all a division commander, had been less than twenty-four hours in command of the division on October 26, when I was relieved of my command that he had never seen me, and that he did not know me; that he admitted he had no personal knowledge of my character, my competency or my char- acteristics at the time the order was issued; that General Bamford did not notify me that I was relieved for "lack of decision, force and aggres- siveness in the performance of my military duties."

FAILED TO MEET REGULATIONS.

"Nor did he state to me the lack of prompt obedience of orders was constitutional with me—that Bam- ford failed to comply with the pro- visions of General Orders No. 111 GHQ, A. E. F., in that he or his chief of staff failed to notify me personally of all the reasons for my relief, which I was entitled to receive un- der that order.

"Brigadier-General George H. Shel- ton, formerly chief-of-staff of the 26th Division, would testify, if present, that he was my brigade com- mander from July 16 to October 26, 1918, inclusive, and would testify that during this period he was in com- mand of the brigade of which the 101st was a part; he would testify that I was zealous in the performance of my duty, that my regiment was in good standing, that I had proved myself an efficient commander, that he neither favored nor approved my removal; if given a chance he would say that he disapproved of my re- moval and considered it an injustice.

RELIED ON HOBBS.

"Colonel Hobbs, at the time of my removal divisional inspector, would testify, if present, that during the time I was in command of the 101st this regiment was an efficient or- ganization and that I was an effi- cient colonel, that I was not lacking in force, decision or aggressiveness, nor was I lacking in prompt obedi- ence to orders.

"Lieutenant-Colonel Cassius M. Dowell, who had been judge advocate of the division and chief of staff, would testify that he regarded me as efficient and that my regiment was an efficient organization."

"Major-General Clarence R. Ed- wards would testify that he was my division commander from August 16, 1917, to October 25, 1918; that I was an efficient colonel, forceful and vig- orous, not lacking in decision, force or aggressiveness, nor in prompt obe- dience of orders; he would testify that the efficiency records presented to him by Brigadier-General Peter E. Traub by George H. Shelton and those is- sued by himself as division command- er would show that I had efficiently handled the regiment."

CALLS COL. MAJOR FRIENDLY.

"Colonel Duncan K. Major, chief of staff, would testify that on Septem- ber 6, 1918, while the 26th Division was at Sommedieu, the inspection of Major-General John Brewster showed that the 101st was the best regiment in the 26th; that Colonel Major re- ported to Brigadier-General Malin Craig, chief of staff, that on the night of July 23, 1918, immediately prior to the attack by the 101st on the Hole Le Trugny, when orders had been issued by the 1st Army Corps for the attack on his wood by the 26th Division, while protests were made by at least one general officer of the 26th against the ad- visability of the attack, my attitude of co-operation at a conference held that night greatly facilitated the work of the division as directed by the 1st Army Corps, and that he fa- vorably reported my conduct to Ma- jor-General Brewster, and that Brewster instructed that I be noti- fied that my attitude was appre- ciated.

"Lieutenant-Colonel Anderson, judge advocate of the 26th, would testify that the 101st was an efficient organization.

"That all the 101st officers, from the lieutenant down, would testify for me.

PRAISED BY FRENCH GENERAL.

"General de Mitry, commanding general of the Fifth Army Corps, French, would testify that the 101st, which served under his command from February 7 to March 21, 1918, had made a good record, that he had personally recommended to General J. J. Pershing that the regiment be commended for conspicuous service in the Chemin des Dames sector.

"Colonel de Gouvello, commanding the infantry organizations of the 11th Division, French, would indorse the conduct of myself and the 101st at Chemin des Dames; he personally commended me to General Ragneau, head of the French mission assigned to the American army.

"General Passaga, commanding the French army corps on the Toul sec- tor, would testify that from April 1 to June 20, the 101st was under his command in the Toul sector, that he ordered my command and that he used me for the work my regiment had done."

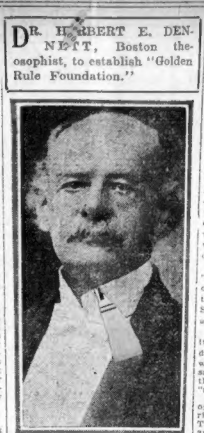
DR. HERBERT E. DENNETT, Boston theosophist, to establish "Golden Rule Foundation."



DENNETT CALLS MORMONISM LESSER EVIL

"Legalized Mormonism is bet- ter than birth control."

"There is no such thing as an illegitimate child. It only exists under the human law."

"Candy is a greater evil than tobacco or liquor.

These are some of the aphorisms of Dr. Herbert Burdett, self-styled theosophist, of No. 1955 Common- wealth avenue, to whom was be- queathed almost the entire estate of Mrs. Adelaide Amelia Hewitt Beyer- lieb, recently deceased, for the pur- pose of establishing a "Golden Rule Foundation" that would save the hu- man race from becoming extinct through interference with nature.

Dr. Dennett, the father of seven children, was divorced from his wife some years ago on charges, he says, of desertion. He told the Boston American today that Mrs. Beyerlieb had divorced her own husband on the ground of cruelty, and that he had given her asylum for fifteen years.

Mrs. Beyerlieb was in her eighty- sixth year when she died on March 22. Her body was cremated, follow- ing out her express wishes, and Dr. Dennett delivered the eulogy. In her will she termed him her "comrade and best friend."

Dr. Dennett was born in Barnstead, N. H., seventy-five years ago, and has been a practicing dentist for fifty-four years. He holds radical opinions on many subjects, but on the subject of the amount of Mrs. Beyerlieb's will he is reticent.

SIXTH SUB-RACE.

"That matter," he said, "is in the hands of my attorney, Abner L. Braley. I cannot give an estimate as to the amount of the estate. But with it I hope to form a nucleus from which may arise the sixth sub-race of the fifth root-race that is now forming.

"Mrs. Beyerlieb's father died years ago in Rio de Janeiro. Her sister then removed to Australia, where she also died, leaving Mrs. Beyerlieb in posses- sion of their father's property."

This property is said to represent thousands of dollars in Australian real estate.

Mrs. Beyerlieb's will was filed yes- terday in the probate office, and left her residuary estate to Dr. Dennett for life. After his death, whatever is left goes to the "Golden Rule Foundation."

She left $1 each to her children, Thomas W. Hewitt, residence unknown; Adelaide A. Ellis of Worcester and Al- bert H. Beyerlieb, stepson, residence also unknown.

"My eldest son, Andrew Noble Hew- itt, may be living or not, as I have had no word from him for many years. I have given my relatives as much as I desire to give them," she said in the will, which Dr. Dennett declares was written two years ago, when Mrs. Beyerlieb was in full possession of all her faculties.

BIRTH CONTROL EVIL.

"I do not expect that the will will be contested," Dr. Dennett said. He showed the letter which had been addressed to Thomas W. Hewitt and returned un- opened in proof of his endeavors to lo- cate Mrs. Beyerlieb's son.

"My plans for the establishment of the Golden Rule Foundation are not complete as yet," said Dr. Dennett. "Very likely, however, it will take the form of a farm, or perhaps an estab- lishment on a more ambitious scale." Dr. Dennett explained that he had been a farmer's boy.

Dr. Dennett became reticent when asked who he would take care of on the farm, or what its particular mission was to be. He declared it was hoped to save part of the country from ex- tinction, at least.

"Birth control is the greatest evil the country has ever known," declared Dr. Den- nett. "Embryonic life is defenceless. If someone tries to murder me, I can de- fend myself, but embryonic life has no such chance.

"There is no such thing as an illegiti- mate child. It only exists under hu- man law. No child can be illegitimate.

"I believe that localized Mormon- ism is better than illegal birth con- trol—or rather, of two evils it is the lesser. But the candy evil is a greater evil than tobacco or liquor. Candy is created before a baby is born, and it destroys the tenah of the mother and undermines the health of the child."

SHORT-WEIGHTERS ARE WARNED BY SCRIPTURES

Pitchburg, April 1.—"A false balance is an abomination to the Lord, but a just weight is his delight."—Proverbs 11:1. This quotation engraved on a card 4 foot square occupies a prominent place in the showcase enclosing the of- ficial State standards in the office of James A. Sloss, sealer of weights and measures. It was placed there by De- sign H. Stevens of the Salvation Army.

'SPORTY' GIRLS BARRED FROM CAMP DEVENS

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, April 1.—Two women detectives from Washington, said to be in the employ of the gov- ernment, visited this cantonment to verify reports that women had ac- cess at all hours without escorts, and were detained by authorities. They were released when they produced credentials.

The women were dolled up as "cabaret mechanics." It is stated, and on arriving at the depot their ac- tions aroused the suspicions of the State police, who notified the guards at the main gate.

Arriving at the gate, the women, it is stated, began flirting with sol- diers. In their report to the agency which sent them here, the women are said to have inferred to the effect that this cantonment is untenable for "sporty women."

Seven officers and 152 enlisted men of the Boston City Hospital unit ar- rived here today from Hoboken. They will be given a physical ex- amination and discharged from the service tomorrow or Thursday.

First Lieutenant J. R. Murphy of Dexter, Me., is fifty-three years old. He was the oldest New England doc- tor on active service with the front- line troops. He served in the 101th Ambulance Company, 103d Sanitary Train, 27th Division. He was dis- charged today.

Another officer discharged was First Lieutenant Francis D. Weeks of Dorchester, who left his studies at Williams College to drive an ambu- lance. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre for service in the Argonne and was graduated from the artillery school in France.

Little Dramas of Life Bared Before His Honor

By HAZEL CANNING

It was a case to puzzle Solomon.

The two of them faced Judge Went- worth today in the Municipal Court, and the eye of one was very black. Down the cheek the contusion con- tinued, and back to his ear. His tale was as mournful as his eye.

"I just come out of the woods, Your Honor, and I had money—al- most a hundred dollars, and I slept at this man's house, and then I went out in the morning for a drink, and my money was gone, and I came back and asked him to give me back my $56, and he punched me, but he never gave me my money—only kicked me downstairs."

"And what have you to say?" the defendant, a dandy in a brown coat and well-washed face, was asked.

Many, many things had the defend- ant to say. He "never took the money; rather he took the complain- ant into his hospitality, free gratis; yes, he might have blacked an eye or so, but then, hadn't somebody in- sulted him that he stuff—"

The judge held up his glasses to the light. Then a question, starting many possibilities.

"Were you working at the time of the—er—accident?"

It appeared that the defendant was not working; had not been for two weeks. It also appeared that, al- though for two years he had worked previously, he did not remember the place where he worked, nor the street, only it was a machine shop some- where in Cambridge.

"The court finds you guilty and sen- tences you to eight months in the House of Correction," the dapper de- fendant heard.

Out they went, accused and accuser, the latter to the-woods again, to earn more money, to lose it as quick- ly as before. Since, as the habitues of the police court tell you, to lose his money in the big town is the com- mon lot of all woodsmen.

"Sure, a very fine lady," you would have said, had you seen her anywhere except at the judge's bench in court today.

For her hair was crisp and expensive- ly curled, with that finesse which only the two-dollar hair dresser can impart; her suit was authoritatively tailored, while her hat was a lure and a defiance to Spring and the dowers of Spring to be more vernal than itself; and, at the back of her skirt, was a slit, tai- lored inward, which was the dernier cri, Ah, quite the dernier cri.

She faced her judge. And, because there was youth and a possible repent- ance on her side, her case was ship- ped. As they whispered you caught a glimpse of her gold bag, and the ...ir immaculate little crepe waist.

"Much money," said you to your- self, "her Rolls Royce may wait for her, just beyond the door."

Then came sentence. A mild sen- tence, consistent with her youth. It was a fine—the court orders you to pay $10," read off the clerk, in the only words that had been spoken out loud.

Flushes on the part of the belle; stammerings; hesitations; white- pered explanations; then a further ...proach to the bench.

"She hasn't $10 to pay," the clerk whispered to His Honor. And the girl with the gold bag, and the deft millinery, and the slashed suit was led forth, into the probation office, to hunt up other means of satisfying great justice a little ten dollars' worth.

GIRL'S RULES FOR WEDDED LIFE DIDN'T WORK

Washington, April 1.—January, 1914 —The meeting at a university social function.

May 8, 1915—The secret marriage.

June 5, 1916—Pronouncement of modern marriage principles.

January 20, 1916—Took up resi- dence in Washington, D. C.

Nov. 7, 1917—Separation.

March, 1918—Taken up employment for support of self and child.

March 17, 1919—Sues husband for maintenance of self and three-year- old child.

This is the five-year cycle of Mrs. Grace Nairin Grant, who was cred- ited in 1915, while a senior at the University of Colorado, with the pro- nouncement of six modern marriage principles so radical as to make a perceptible stir in university circles there and in other cities.

WIFE CHARGES CRUELTY.

Mrs. Grant, in a petition filed in the district supreme court, asking for separate maintenance for herself and Muriel, her three-year-old child, charges her husband with cruelty, desertion and failure to provide.

"How interesting, yet how absurd," she observed, as she re-read the so- called 'principles' she was said to have uttered shortly after her mar- riage. "I don't remember having made these statements, at least not in that way," she said at her home today.

She read the "principles" aloud. They follow:

HERE ARE THE "PRINCIPLES."

"A wedding ring is a relic of bar- barism and should not be worn.

"It is a badge of man's ownership.

"A bride should live apart from her husband while working ... degree."

"A wife should accept ... from her husband except ... tually needed to defray ... expenses.

"Money for her clothing, ... ments and for luxuries ... earned by the wife herself.

"A bride should retain her ... name until she actually begins ... with her husband in their own h...

"Marriage should be a compan- ship between husband and wife ... rather than a drawn-out spoon- honeymoon."

AFTER FIVE YEARS.

Perusal of the "principles" seemed to amuse Mrs. Grant.

"As to the first principle, I agree with that. I do not wear a wedding ring, as you see. Why should a woman wear a wedding ring?

"Everything she goes out it means say- ing to all men: 'Don't speak to me; I'm the property of another man.'

"Take the second principle; I was not working for my master's degree at that time. I was working for my Ph. B. and I got it that Summer.

"Now, as to the third and fourth. I don't accept them at all. I merely be- lieve that a man and his wife should conduct the home on a fifty-fifty plan, as far as finances and otherwise. It should be a game of give and take. Each should make allowances for the faults of the other.

She had nothing to say of the fifth "principle." However, it was the poi- sy she adopted in her own case.

As to the sixth "principle," Mrs. Grant declared that all husbands and wives should agree that "marriage should be a companionship between husband and wife rather than a drawnout spoony honeymoon."

DISCHARGED SOLDIER, JOBLESS, A SUICIDE

Providence, April 1.—Discouraged because he found no job awaiting him on his discharge from the army, and his wife and four children in need of things he could not buy, Domenico Lopo, thirty-one, shot himself to death on the family lot in Cranston cemetery near here. Lopo had been despondent, according to relatives. He lived at No. 454 Atwells avenue.

Spring Find You Tired and Achy?

HAS winter left you dull, tired and achy all over—back ache as if it would break? Are you "all played out;" feel as if you just can't keep go- ing? Likely your kidneys are at fault! Winter with its colds and chills throws a heavy strain on the kidneys. Spring finds you full of mysterious aches and pains; you are nervous, dizzy, irritable and "blue." You may have kidney irregularities, too. Don't wait! Help the weakened kid- neys before serious kidney trouble takes hold. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has helped so many Boston people.

Read These Boston Cases:

Mrs. Wm. P. Davis, 42 Dover St., says: "I can hardly describe the misery which I suffered from backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble. Mornings I could hardly get out of bed because of the sharp pains in the small of my back, and it took me an hour before I could get around to do my house- work. Bladder weakness bothered me a great deal. I had such pains in the back of my head I could hardly turn one way or another. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills gave me wonderful results. Nothing had ever helped me the way Doan's did."	W. S. Ripley, Sr., composer of music, 228 Trem- ont St., says: "I began to have a dull, tired ache in the small of my back. It hurt me to bend and I couldn't turn in bed without sharp pains catching my back. Mornings I felt unrefreshed and lacked ambi- tion. The kidney secretions deposited a sediment. If I stooped to pick up anything I got dizzy and my sight blurred. After I had used but a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I began to feel better and about two and one-half boxes relieved me."	Miss G. Dennett, 105 Warren Ave., says: "My kidneys were in bad condition. I felt run down, and I was greatly inconvenienced and distressed by the irregular action of my kidneys. My back was weak and lame, too. Doan's Kidney Pills, used as directed, relieved all signs of the trouble in a short time. I gladly recommend this medicine to other sufferers from kidney trouble, for I know it is worthy of a trial."

Chas. E. Whiting, Fireman, 231 Boston St., Dor- chester, South Boston, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times when my kidneys have troubled me, and they have always given me good re- sults. Whenever I caught cold, it was sure to go to my Kidneys, and then I would have severe backaches and weakness over my kidneys. The action of my kidneys was irregular, too. I have always used Doan's when these times, and they have been sure to strengthen my back and regulate my kidneys."	Mrs. E. H. Leighton, 14 Winthrop St., East Boston, says: "I value Doan's Kidney Pills very highly. I gave a public statement a few years ago recommend- ing Doan's, and am glad to endorse them again at this time. Whenever I feel that my kidneys need strength- ening, I use Doan's Kidney Pills and feel better after taking them." (Statement given July 24, 1914) On February 6, 1919, Mrs. Leighton added: "Doan's Kidney Pills have certainly proven their value to me and I can't say too much for them. I know they are perfectly reliable and will do what is claimed for them."	John Kelley, 2 Medford Court, says: "I keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand all the time, and I know they are all that is claimed for them. My kidneys were weak, and whenever I took cold it caused me to have severe backaches. On stooping over, sharp pains took me in the region of my kidneys and it was a task for me to straighten up again. My kidneys didn't act right, either. Doan's Kidney Pills soon put a stop to the aches and pains in my back and regu- lated my kidneys. I always depend on this medicine when relief when I have any signs of kidney trouble."

THEATRE — Another ll of photoplays was rday at Loew's Columbia here the policy of daily programs draws full houses popular theatre's patronage. bill consists of two full otoplays together with news and comedies, making a show very attractive.

DOLLY GIRLS FEATURE OF 'OH, LOOK'

By FRED J. McISAAC.

When a whole crew of chorus boys trooped out upon the stage at "Oh, Look," last night with wide grins on their funny faces, a large man near me remarked in an audible tone.

"Now I know the war is over."

Sure enough this outfit were all unbrowned looking, not a gray hair or a wrinkle in the crew, and it brought back the good old days before the war.

"Oh, Look" at the Shubert brought back the good old days in another way for it is a musical version of James Montgomery's sterling farce, "Ready Money." The lyrics were written by Joseph McCarthy, a South Boston boy, and the music by Harry Carroll, while our old friends Robert Milton and Edward Royce put the piece on.

The features of "Oh, Look" are the Dolly sisters. Whoever dreams these Dollies is a poet as well as a modiste. They always manage to look rare and exotic with their Oriental faces and their exquisitely appropriate costuming.

Since the days when they were strictly dancers the Dollies have journeyed far. Now they are admirable pantomimists, their voices have been sweetened and attuned until they put a song over very effectively. As far as acting goes they don't have to take the wash of many girls in musical comedy.

Harry Fox is in "Oh, Look." Harry is also a feature. He is hyphenated on the billboards along with the Dolly Sisters, same size type, same line. There "are them as likes Harry Fox and them as don't." He certainly can put a popular song over, and his "Faddes" in several of the musical numbers were side-splitting. But in "Oh, Look" he plays a straight comedy part, and in trying to be natural like Willie Collier, he swallowed many of his lines, at least they didn't reach D 2 and 4.

Hugh Cameron, whose eccentric detective seems to have the drug habit, got a great many laughs. Charles Lane, a capital legitimate actor, seemed a bit out of place in a musical comedy, and certainly didn't create the impression of a prosperous counterfeiter.

The Dolly girls haven't forgotten to dance—you just bet they haven't—and one number, "I Want to Marry," included some very novel and striking business.

Mr. Carroll's music is the quiet, tinkling Princess Theatre stuff which Jerome Kern handles so successfully. I wouldn't say that he had imitated Kern, but he certainly has heard him. There are several cunning melodies. The chorus is pretty, graceful and charmingly gowned. Aside from the performers mentioned there was little distinction in the cast.

WALDORF THEATRE—For wealth of amusing quality the bill of vaudeville and photoplay subjects presented yesterday at the Waldorf Theatre deserves special commendation, for every item was most satisfying. In the vaudeville there was offered the Burke-Touhey company of Irish comedians, singers, dancers and pipers in the comedy skit, "Going to the Wedding;" the Strand trio of comedians and singers, and others. On the screen there was given the first showing of Mitchell Lewis in "Life's Greatest Problem," a stirringly dramatic photoplay in which the verile Mr. Lewis does some of the best work of his career. The entire bill changes on Thursday.

BOSTON THEATRE—Marion Davies, one of the most beautiful stars in filmdom, is featured in "The Belle of New York" at the Boston Theatre this week. Miss Davies is shown at her best in this role in which she portrays a Salvation Army lassie. Because of the wonderful and heroic work performed by Salvation Army lassies during the war, "The Belle of New York" was even more enthusiastically received on the screen than when it made its first appearance at the Boston Theatre about twenty years ago.

WALDRON'S CASINO—This week at Waldron's Casino is notable in the fact that it will mark the only appearance here this season of the famous "Sporting Widows," who have gained an enviable reputation during the past three seasons on the Columbia circuit. This year Jacobs & Jermon have spared no expense to insure a production up to the previous standard.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—The vaudeville acts and motion picture subjects that went to make up the program offered yesterday at Loew's Orpheum Theatre comprises a bill of great pleasure giving properties. Leading the vaudeville was the Harry Tate company in the very funny satire on the auto craze, "Motoring." Others on the bill are Joe Darcey, comedian; Jack and June Laughlin in songs and comedy; Emmett and Moore, comedians and singers; the Reclands, rapid-fire painters, and Sterling and Marguerite. On the screen there were shown the latest news pictures, a comedy, and John Harrymore in "The Test of Honor." This photoplay has a dramatic story in which the star is vested with a role which employs his best gifts for strong acting, a field in which he has on the speaking stage reached first eminence.

ST. JAMES THEATRE—"The Poppy Girl's Husband," by Jack Boyle, is at the St. James Theatre the first three days of the week with William S. Hart taking the leading role. There is also a special comedy and Pathe Weekly.

BOWDOIN SQ. THEATRE—Anita Stewart is seen this week at the Bowdoin Square Theatre in that powerful drama, "From Headquarters," which deals with the story of a pretty girl who put every trust in her employer and when he failed her she sought vengeance with her own hands.

HOWARD ATHENAEUM—George Niblo, the happy tramp comedian, and dashing Helene Spencer were seen with the Midnight Maidens yesterday at the Howard, and the burlesque show presented just bubbled with sparkling and wholesome humor.

DRAMA WELL PLAYED AT ARLINGTON

"The Witching Hour," a drama built around mental telepathy, is presented this week at the Arlington Theatre by the Arlington Stock Company.

Dudley Ayres, as Jack Brookfield, a Kentuckian, whose gaming ability has made him a fortune, is given opportunity to make the most of his role. His acting is excellent.

The drama has a bit of crime problem connected with a love story. These parts, however, are completely overshadowed by Brookfield's mastery of a new study, and a lifelong, though unknown, power-of-mental telepathy.

Mr. Ayres is well supported by Ben Robinson, who plays the part of an old time sweetheart of Brookfield.

Mark Kent, as the dignified, yet wholly human Supreme Court Justice Prentice, gives a delightful touch to the cast. His acting is admirable. Mr. Kent is perhaps a bit more than realistic in the roles he assumes. There is an indefinable touch to his manner that is appealing.

Aubrey Bosworth, the juvenile favorite, is given a prominent part in the play, which, as is to be expected, he admirably performs.

The scene of the drama is laid in Kentucky. Apparently the play is based on actual occurrences in that State several years ago; at least the part pertaining to crime has a striking resemblance to a case still fresh in the minds of many Kentuckians. But one thing is lacking in the performance—none of the actors has mastered the Kentucky accent in novels—a hard task for any mortal, unless born and reared in Kentucky.

GAYETY THEATRE—The "Girls of the U. S. A." an attractive combination of mirth, melody and femininity, is the current week's attraction at the Gayety Theatre. Patterned after the average Broadway musical revue, it presents a succession of scenes joined together by a slender thread of plot, serving to introduce a glittering array of specialties. Those noted entertainers, Lew Hilton and Ina Hayward, head the show, which also numbers Ciara Evans, John Rohlman, Chas. Figg, Roy Peck and Mlle. Babette.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Heart of Humanity" began the final week of its sensational engagement at the Tremont Temple yesterday. This photoplay spectacle has been received with tremendous acclaim in Boston during its run and the amount of patronage that has been accorded it would guarantee a stay of many weeks longer. But already the other cities in New England are demanding the showings of it and booking conditions compel a cessation of the Boston engagement in order to satisfy that demand.

COPLEY THEATRE—The opening performances of Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Arms and the Man," will be given at the Copley Repertory Theatre this afternoon and evening by the Henry Jewett Players. It will be continued throughout the week, with Thursday and Saturday matinees, and will be followed next Monday evening by a revival of Henry Arthur Jones' play, "The Middleman."

Cecil Lean, the star of numerous musical comedy successes, and his partner Cleo Mayfield, convinced the patrons of Keith's last night that there is such a thing as originality. The lyrics and music of their "acting songs," took the audience by storm.

Owen McGiveney, the protean actor in his novel sketch, "Bill Sikes," is worthy of the highest praise. His dramatic work is second to none. We are all familiar with the speed of a woman's changing mind. When it comes to changing costumes, Gwen McGiveney wins. He changes them quicker than any woman her mind. He portrays five different, distinct and difficult characters without a hitch in the action of his sketch, which is an adaptation from Charles Dickens' famous novel, "Oliver Twist."

"Not Yet, Marie," a novel musical sketch, was a regular fashion show. The plot is fine and put over by a good company. Swiftly moving action from the start to the finish.

Jim and Betty Morgan, composers of a number of the latest song numbers, render them in their own pleasing manner to the pleasure of all.

Another gem is Emily Darrell. She and her dog loose no time in making friends. Harry Mayo and Basil Lynn offer a line of racy conversation. James Eadie and Ann Ramsden, in the little skit, "Charlie's Visit," is a scream. Leo Zarrell & Company offer a hand acrobatic act this is unusual. The Kinogram, displaying the world's latest news, was also shown.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES—Fred Stone appeared upon the screen in his new photoplay, "Johnny Get Your Gun," at the Modern and Beacon Theatres, where it will continue to be shown throughout the week. This is the third of his screen productions, all of which, singularly enough, have been first unrolled while the famous comedian was playing in person at a local theatre. His new picture may be estimated as even funnier than its predecessors. The story reveals him as a cowboy who is working in a picture studio as a "stunt man," where he proves to be a real hero with the leading lady of the company as heroine. The accompanying picture showed Madge Kennedy in "Daughter of Mine."

GLOBE THEATRE—The all-photoplay program shown yesterday at Loew's Globe Theatre was the most pleasureable of bills, quality unusual especially marking the two features. John Barrymore was shown for the first time in his new photoplay, "The Test of Honor," a strong story filled with moving drama. Mr. Barrymore is as supreme in the cinema as on the stage. The other photoplay showed the beautiful June Elvidge in "The Love Defender." The entire bill will be changed on Thursday.

THE DEAF HEAR

Reading the numerous testimonials of those who were deaf and who have had their hearing restored by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, naturally assumes that the Osmo-Chemic physicians are successful specialists of deafness and ear troubles. This is far from the truth. The great many testimonials from patients who were successfully treated for other diseases are crowded out because of lack of space, and because there are so many more deaf people than those who suffer from other chronic troubles.

Mr. Fred Taylor, 22 Beals St., Dorchester, said to the writer: "I had suffered for years from bronchial asthma. I could not sleep, I was so choked up, so that it was difficult for me to breathe. My daughter, Mrs. C. C. Haskell, had been successfully treated by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians for deafness. She persuaded me to go to them for treatment. I did so, and I am glad to join with her in singing the praises of these wonderful physicians and their marvelous system of healing for all diseases."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in the cases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASES, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASES, BIRTHMARKS, MOLES, SUPERFLUOUS HAIR, ETC.

No matter what your disease may be, remember that the Osmo-Chemic doctor gives CONSULTATION and a Trial Treatment and a full X-RAY Medicines. Absolutely FREE to all who call before April 6th.

Lemon Juice is Skin Beautifier, Also a Whitener

Many women use just the juice of lemons to bleach or whiten the skin, but pure lemon juice is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and strain from the grocer and mix up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to bring back to any skin the whiteness, the sweet freshness and flexibility of youth, which it has been robbed by careless ness or trying atmospheric conditions.

$135 AYS FISH MEN WERE PLEDGED TO SECRECY

Witness at Trial of 38 Dealers Tells of Meeting for Alleged Combine

That the formation of an alleged fish combine in Boston in 1916 was attended by "secrecy pledges" administered to independents being sounded by promoters of the organization developed today.

Arthur L. Parker, vice-president of the firm of Arnold & Winsow, testifying in Criminal Court at the prosecution of some thirty-six big fish dealers charged with criminal trade tactics, said he could not relate certain conversations, as he "was bound to secrecy."

The conversation alluded to took place between the witness and G. P. Monroe Dyer, one of the big financial agents charged with much activity in forming the alleged combine, and was prior to Parker's entry into Dyer's group.

The conversation was at the Hotel Touraine in the Summer of 1916, according to the witness, and shortly thereafter he was elected a director of the big organization into which his firm was temporarily absorbed.

Mr. Parker said on the stand that he had been in the wholesale fish business in Boston for twenty-five years. He was "asked to go into the combine" first by Joseph A. Rich of the Bay State Fishing Company of Massachusetts, he said, at the City Club, on February 11, 1916.

"A New York financier will put up money to help us," Rich is alleged to have said.

Parker promised to take the proposition into consideration, and was summoned to another meeting at the City Club shortly afterward, and became the famous big meeting in March at which the government claims the combine took definite shape.

At this meeting Mr. Parker testified he met P. Munro Dyer for the first time, and Mr. Dyer was introduced as "the New York financier who was going to help out the Boston fish dealers."

Mr. Dyer in a speech to Mr. Parker and several other men was alleged by the witness to have suggested that they give him options on their businesses, and in return he would "guarantee" them eight times as much money as they were making.

Independents coming into the combine were to get preferred stock for tangible assets, said Mr. Parker, and common stock for good will. Patrick J. Anderson, another defendant in the fish trial, said he did not want to go into the deal, as it "would be king but a steal," according to the witness.

The second meeting of the City Club at Mr. Parker still cold, he told Lee Sanderson, and he held out until after the meeting at the Touraine, at which was covered by the "secrecy pledges" administered to the witness by somebody.

WITNESS AT HEARING FINED FOR CONTEMPT

William N. Gould of Brighton street, Charlestown, former special police officer of the Boston Elevated, was fined $25 by Judge Charles S. Sullivan in Charlestown court today for contempt of court. Gould was testifying against William Ross of the same address and turning from the court to the prisoner's dock called Ross a "dirty cur." Thereupon he was placed in the dock, in company with Ross. The latter, who was being tried on a charge preferred by Gould, was discharged.

CHICAGO NURSE SHOT BY REJECTED SUITOR

Chicago, April 1.—Miss Jennie Bodeen, a nurse, was shot and seriously wounded today by Albert Rottenhagen, a rejected suitor, according to Miss Bodeen's story. Rottenhagen escaped and the police fear he may have committed suicide. Miss Bodeen is expected to recover.

FITCHBURG SOLDIER AT FRENCH COLLEGE

Fitchburg, April 1.—Private Rodney D. Mosher, now in France, has the honor of being one of the Fitchburg soldiers, out of many hundreds, to be selected by the government for attendance at one of the French universities. He will attend the course arranged for soldiers at Caen University, Caen, France.

MRS. THORNE OFFERS $1000 FOR RETURN OF SON

Wife of Joel W. Thorne, from whom she has been separated for some time, has applied for writ of habeas corpus which will give her the custody of her son who, she alleges, is in possession of the father.

New York, April 1.—Mrs. Mary Casey Thorne has offered a reward of $1,000 to the person or persons who will return to her custody, her son, Joel W. Thorne, Jr.

Mrs. Thorne believes that her son is now in the possession of his father, Joel W. Thorne, from whom she has been separated for some time. She alleges that on the day of the 27th Division parade, she saw the youngster in a window of the Thorne home on Fifth avenue, and that a closer inspection by means of field glasses proved that she was not mistaken.

Mrs. Thorne is now endeavoring to get a writ of habeas corpus, which will give her the permanent custody of the boy.

AWAIT WIRELESS FROM TRANSPORT MT. VERNON

The Naval Radio Station at Otter Cliff, Me., expects to be in communication with the U. S. S. Mt. Vernon before night, according to information today from the headquarters of the First Naval District. Rear Admiral Wood is endeavoring to learn the exact time that the transport is due to arrive in the lower harbor in order to complete arrangements for docking. He plans to have the transport dock in the early morning, Saturday, when the tide is high, if that is possible.

TO CUT BIG BUDGET FOR BRITISH NAVY

London, April 1.—The United States need have no apprehension that Great Britain will authorize the proposed 1919-1920 naval budget of $744,000,000, which is just $4,000,000 more than that proposed by the United States for similar purposes. Walter Long, M. P., First Lord of the Admiralty, told Parliament that Britain's naval budget would be pared down considerably in the new estimates to be presented in June or July after peace is signed.

200 LABORERS STRIKE ON LAWERNCE BUILDING

Lawrence, April 1.—Over 200 building laborers employed by the Turner Construction Company, who are erecting a storehouse for the Washington Mills, went on strike this morning for 55 cents an hour. They have been receiving 45 cents an hour. The strike has tied up work on the storehouse. About 50 other building laborers employed by other contractors also quit work. Master painters today received an ultimatum from 120 painters and paperhangers that if they do not receive 75 cents an hour for 40 hours a week they will strike Monday. The scale is now 65 cents for 44 hours a week.

VINCENT ASTOR BRINGS HOME A U-BOAT

Millionaire Lieutenant Making Good His Promise, Given Before Going to War

New York, April 1.—True to a promise he made to friends the night before he sailed away to war, Lieutenant Vincent Astor is bringing a captured German U-boat to this country, according to advices received by naval authorities here today and confirmed by Mrs. Astor.

"The wealthiest young fighter of the United States Navy" is second in command on the UC—97, one of the four enemy submersibles which left Harwich, England, yesterday westbound in charge of American crews. The undersea boats are being brought over for use in promoting the forthcoming Victory Loan. The command of the UC—97 is Lieutenant-Commander H. Gibson.

The other American bound submarines are the U—88, in charge of Lieutenant-Commander J. L. Nirlson; the U—117, Lieutenant-Commander A. C. Pribell, and the U—148, Lieutenant-Commander H. G. Smith.

Young Astor went away as an ensign after commanding the guards on one of the East River bridges for a while. He rose to the rank of junior lieutenant and was promoted to a lieutenancy. He was trained under Captain Fritz Ultimark.

The night before he embarked for the transatlantic trip Lieutenant Astor was entertained by a party of friends. When the time came for good-bys he remarked:

"Gentlemen, I won't come back from over there until I can bring a German U-boat with me."

The last active service of the lieutenant on the other side was in command of the boats that helped convoy the allied armistice waterway commission through the Kiel Canal into Germany.

Mrs. Astor, who is serving at the Y. M. C. A. victory hut at the Battery, said today that she had received a cablegram from her husband confirming the news that he is on his way now 65 cents for 44 hours a week home.

SCORES GRAB IN WATER POWER BILL

Weed Admits Extraordinary Power for Big Interests in Proposed Law

Admission that the big water-power combine bill now before the Legislature affords ample opportunity for the big water-power interests to drive "the little fellows" out of business was made by Chairman Weed of the Gas Commission under the grilling of Senator John E. Beck of Chelsea today.

During the same hearing before the legislative Committee on Waterways, Representative Monk of Watertown declared that charges of "a great steal" by "the water-power monopoly" are being made with reckless abandon.

"If there is an attempted steal here, I will try to stop it," he said. "I think it is now up to the authors of these charges to tell the committee just what they mean."

While Commissioner Weed was speaking for the bill, Senator Beck said to him:

"Isn't it a fact that the little fellows along the Millers River are afraid that this proposed 'development' is going to be a burden instead of a benefit?"

"Yes," said Weed.

"As a matter of fact, can't the cost of 'developing' these rivers be made so enormous that the 'little fellows' won't be able to pay their proportionate share, that the 'big fellows' can then 'sit tight' and wait for the 'little fellows' to come and sell their property to them?"

"Yes, I guess thats so."

NAME 114TH ENGINEERS FOR EARLY CONVOY HOME

Washington, April 1.—Assignment to early convoy of the following units was announced by the War Department today: Base hospital 71, 114th (railway) engineers and train; 53rd pioneer infantry, 372nd aero squadron, ordnance casual companies 1 and 39 to 57 inclusive, transportation corps, 312th clothing unit, 324th butchery company, and 103rd aero replacement squadron.

THOMPSON AND HOYNE RUN CLOSE IN CHICAGO

Chicago, April 1.—Clear, snappy weather today, following the winding up in several near riots last night of the most bitter and stubbornly fought political campaign in the history of the city, started Chicagoans to the voting places early today. Political observers predict a record-breaking vote of at least 700,000. Mayor William Hale Thompson, seeking re-election on the Republican ticket, and Maclay Hoyne, independent candidate, are expected to finish close in the mayoralty race. John Fitzpatrick, labor candidate, is expected to draw heavily on the Democratic voters, reducing the chances of Robert M. Sweitzer, the Democratic candidate.

THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL DISEASES

No organs of the human body are so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Danger is in sight.

Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back, wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

Lawrence City Jobs to Go to Returned Service Men

Lawrence, April 1.—The City Council voted to request Mayor John J. Hurley to appoint a special committee to aid returning soldiers and sailors to secure employment.

Hundreds of service men are without employment, due to the strike situation.

Directors of city departments are swamped with requests from ex-service men for work. Hereafter they will be given preference in the matter of city jobs.

Alderman Finnegan said one returned soldier who lost the use of an arm while in the service was offered a position as flagman at $21 a week, but turned it down.

TAGUE-FITZGERALD HEARING TO RESUME

The Tague-Fitzgerald hearing will be resumed tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, according to Attorney Timothy Callahan, one of the Fitzgerald legal advisers.

When asked if the Congressman would take the stand, Mr. Callahan said this week would be consumed in presenting formal evidence and that Mr. Fitzgerald would not testify this week.

CAPTOR OF "JEFF" DAVIS DIES IN SOLDIERS' HOME

Johnson City, Tenn., April 1.—The man who is credited with capturing Jefferson Davis at the close of the Civil War, is dead at the Mountain Branch Soldiers' Home here.

He was a native of Switzerland and enlisted at Cincinnati. A son, Charles C. Knoble, resides in Philadelphia.

NEW PICTURES SHOWN IN HOME TOWN THEATRES

ALLSTON THEATRE, ALLSTON—With feature Wednesday and Thursday Wallace Reid in "Alias Mike Moran," "The Purple Mystery" and "Alias Brady in "Hollow of Her Hand," and others. Five pictures for Friday and Saturday will include Bryant Washburn in "The Poor Boob."

BRIGHTON THEATRE, BRIGHTON—The leading features showing Wednesday are Alice Joyce in "Everybody's Girl," "Love of the Circus" in the thrilling serial and other new pictures.

RIALTO THEATRE, BROCKTON—Offers for the last half of this week William Farnum in "The Silver King," and other up-to-date pictures.

STRAND THEATRE, BROCKTON—With show for the last half of this week Vivian Martin in "Jane Goes a Wooing," and other attractions.

CITY THEATRE, BROCKTON—The last half of this week the leading features will be Lee Kiodles in "Doing Their Bit," and other pictures and an all-star vaudeville.

FRANKLIN PARK THEATRE, DORCHESTER—Kitty Gordon is seen in the latest production, "Adele," and also in "Cupid Versus Cleopatra," and others. Four feature vaudeville acts are seen in the same program.

BROADWAY THEATRE, EVERETT—Wednesday and Thursday Alice Brady in "Diane of the Follies." Friday and Saturday Elsie Ferguson in "The Strange Woman." This picture shows Miss Ferguson at her best and is a production of great merit. Mae Marsh in "Polly of the Circus" and the World Pictorial News will be shown.

FELLSWAY THEATRE, MEDFORD—Presents Wednesday and Thursday Alice Brady in "Diane of the Follies" and Pearl White in "The Lightning Raider," comedy and other pictures.

MEDFORD THEATRE, MEDFORD—Will show for the last half of this week Vivian Martin in "Jane Goes a Wooing," and others.

MEDFORD—Wednesday and Thursday with Pearl White in "The Lightning Raider," and Lina Cavalieri in "The Two Brides," and others.

DUDLEY THEATRE, ROXBURY—The bill for the last half of this week promises to draw large audiences. Clara K. Young in "Sealed Orders" and Lillian Lorraine in "Poppy Love" are headliners. Commencing Thursday and the balance of the week one of the biggest shows of the season is scheduled with Fannie Ward in "Common Clay" and others.

SHAWMUT THEATRE, ROXBURY—In addition to the regular program there will be a song demonstrator, singing popular songs, stereopticon slides and a community sing-song will appear each evening.

HYDE PARK THEATRE, HYDE PARK—The best vaudeville and latest photoplay bills in the city are being offered this week. Commencing with popular movie star, Peggy Hyland, in her newest production, "Caught on the Set," and feature vaudeville.

GRIFFIN HAVENS, GRIFFIN HEIGHTS—Will continue Wednesday and Thursday Shirley Mason in "The Lightning Raider," in part six. There will also be shown on the program other leading attractions.

CONGRESS HALL, SOUTH BOSTON—The popular photoplay house in south Boston will show a pleasing bill for the last half of the week with Hedda Hara in "The Serpent," and other pictures.

OLYMPIA THEATRE, SOMERVILLE—Will offer for Wednesday and Thursday Rosalie Love in "The Witches Ring Glen," and others.

GORMAN'S THEATRE, ROSLINDALE—The program will be headed with an all-star feature for the last half of the week. Comedy and other new attractions to be shown on the same program.

LOWELL THEATRE, LOWELL—Will present for the last half of the week Madge Kennedy in "Perfect Lady," Robert Walsh in "Still Small Voice" and Madeline Boland in "Her Country First."

MARLBOROUGH THEATRE, MARLBORO—A photoplay of unusual interest is being shown at the Marlborough Theatre today featuring James K. Hackett and Effie Shannon in "Ashes of Love." Also on the same bill is William Duncan in "Height of Torment," and other pictures.

STRAND THEATRE, PORTLAND, ME.—A small army of designers and dressmakers was employed at the Thomas H. Inch studios to make gowns for Dorothy Dalton, who interprets the part of a New York social set beauty in the Goldwyn picture, "Fair and Warmer," which is a delightful comedy and will be the feature photoplay.

MAJESTIC, ORPHEUM, MALDEN—Will show for the last half of this week Fannie Ward in "Common Clay," the heart-rending story of a girl who was wronged and wanted to be right.

Plays That Remain

WILBUR THEATRE—The fourth week of William Collier in his new laughing success, "Nothing But Lies," began at the Wilbur Theatre last night, with the prospect of many more weeks of fun.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Adam Eva" is making many new friends at Selwyn's Park Square theatre, where last night it began another week of capacity business. All signs point every indication of settling down to a long stay.

COLONIAL THEATRE—An evening of rare good fun and hearty laughter is the promise made and religiously kept in the screamingly funny farce, "She Walked in Her Sleep," which began its second week of popularity at the Plymouth Theatre last evening.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—The fourth week of the engagement of George Arliss in the double bill comprising Hubert Henry Davies' "The Mollusc" and J. M. Barrie's "A Well Remembered Voice" began at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The last two weeks is announced for Mary Nash and "The Big Chief," at the Majestic Theatre. Previous bookings make it impossible to continue the run of this popular star and her absorbing play.

TREMONT THEATRE—"The Rainbow Girl" began its final fortnight at the Tremont Theatre last evening. This musical comedy which has returned with its splendor instead of being diminished by a prosperous road tour comes again to us increased in lustre of worth and even funnier than before.

COLONIAL THEATRE—Fred Stone in "Jack O' Lantern" began another week of his phenomenal engagement at the Colonial Theatre last evening. To witness the crowded houses of last night no informed Bostonian would consider that this engagement began last Christmas and has continued with never a break in capacity business.

"DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

Stop dandruff and double beauty of your hair for few cents.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair appears soft, glossy and twice as thick and abundant. Try it.

ASKS LICENSE TO PEDDLE LIQUOR IN PUSHCART

Vast Possibilities in Plan if Town of Rockland Grants Application of Timothy Regan

A pushcart liquor license! Shades of Bacchus, what next? The selectmen of the town of Rockland are in receipt of an application for a license to sell intoxicating liquors from one Timothy Regan.

Since the town voted itself into the wet column last month the selectmen fixed the price of a liquor license at $500 for two months—May and June.

The first and only applicant for a license is Timothy Regan.

Regan's application is for a traveling license. He wants to sell his wares from a pushcart and move his stand to wherever people congregate.

Weddings, christenings and wakes, not to mention noon-day gatherings of factory employes, are among the "events" toward which Regan plans to perambulate to the appointed hour.

Church picnics at Island Grove will afford legitimate game for the ubiquitous Regan, in case his petition meets the approval of the town fathers.

The merit of Regan's scheme has won the admiration of the thirsty ones, and it is safe to say that he will have their unqualified indorsement in the event of a showdown.

Rockland's "better element," so-called, is aghast at the idea, and pressure is being brought upon the selectmen to refuse a license to Regan on the ground that he is not a registered voter.

At a recent meeting of the Rockland Board of Selectmen it was decided not to grant a liquor license to any but registered voters residing within the town limits. Out-of-town competition is not desired.

Rockland people have a hunch that the license will not be granted.

MOVE TO OVERTHROW GERMAN GOVERNMENT

By Special Cable to Universal Service and London Daily Express.

Cologne, April 1.—Revolt is damming up openly in Westphalia. At Dortmund a mass meeting passed resolutions calling for the overthrow of the government, the disarming of the middle classes, the arming of the proletariat and the dissolving of the national assembly at Weimar.

There is a general strike at Dortmund, and also in the Ruhr district. Thirty-two thousand miners are out at Essen.

LAUNCH SHIP AT NEWARK BY AID OF SEARCHLIGHTS

Newark, N. J., April 1.—For the first time here twenty-five huge searchlights were used at a launching. The fabricated steel-ship Montgomery was the craft launched. The 8,500-ton vessel was named after the city of Montgomery, Ala. The searchlights illuminated the ways and the waters of Newark Bay so clearly that the spectators were able to view the entire ceremony.

Get Back Your Grip On Health

Physician Gives Practical Advice On What to Do To Help Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance—Explains

How Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—Helps Put Renewed Vim and Energy Into the Veins of the Weak, Nervous and Run-down—

Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health simply because their blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron.

To possess the power, energy and endurance that win the blood should be rich in strength - giving iron. For this purpose physicians be- ly plain why they pre- scribe organic iron — Nuxated Iron — which by enriching the blood and creating thousands of new red blood cells often quick- ly transform the shabby flesh, toneless tissues and pallid cheeks of weak, anemic men and women into a glow of health. It erases the strength of nerves, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time in many instances.

"In my opinion the greatest curse to the health and strength of American people of today is the lack of iron in their blood," writes a well known author. "It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood that life-sustaining oxygen enters the body. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to combat disease, and no reserve stand where lack of sufficient iron in the blood has allowed many a man's nerves and utterly robbed him of that virile force and stamina which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life.

"Therefore I strongly advise those who feel the need of a strength and blood builder to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for it has done wonders for thousands and I am convinced that if others would take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak and run-down it would help make a nation of stronger, healthier men and women."

In explaining why he regards iron as absolutely essential to the greatest development of physical and mental power, and discussing the probability of building up a stronger race of people by increasing the supply of iron to their blood, Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon, Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, says:

"Iron is absolutely necessary to change food into living tissue, muscle and brain. Refined foods and modern methods of cooking have robbed us of much of the iron our bodies intended we should receive and for supplying this deficiency and increasing the red blood corpuscles, I know of nothing more effective than organic iron Nuxated Iron. From a careful examination of the formula and my own test of it, I feel warranted that it is a preparation which any physician can take upon himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results. The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over three million people annually as a tonic, strength and blood-builder, is in itself an evidence of tremendous public confidence and I am convinced that if others would take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak and run-down it would help make a nation of stronger, healthier men and women."

Commenting on the use of Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood-builder, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, said:

"Thousands are held back in life for want of sufficient iron in the blood. A weak body means a weakened will power, and like the race horse beaten by a nose, many a capable man or woman fails just short of winning because they don't back up their mentality with the physical strength and energy which come from having plenty of iron in the blood. This irritable switch, that fit of despondency, that dizzy, fearful feeling—these are the sort of signals nature gives to tired, listless folks when the blood is exhausting for strength-giving iron—more iron to restore the health by enriching the blood and creating thousands of new red blood cells.

Nuxated Iron in its original packages can now be had at most druggists. Those who prefer to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were willing all the while have been surprised to increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had, in some cases, been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron recommended above is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or else will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

EDDIE COLLINS AND CUTSHAW SHOW WAY

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

Chicago's White Sox, with Eddie Collins, leads the dope on the second basemen, which is not a surprise, as he has been the ranking second baseman of the league and of the country ever since Johnny Evers lost his health, if not before that.

The surprise is in the leader of the National League. Maybe you have suspected it, as this fellow George Cutshaw has been improving year in and year out ever since he got into fast company, but until now the figures have worked rather against him.

This season, with a rather mediocre mess of second basemen in the old league, and with the majority of them way below the caliber of former years, Cutshaw shows a clear lead.

He was really a great player when with Brooklyn, and year after year the dope showed that he figured in more double plays and started more twin killings than any second baseman in his circuit and usually more than any second baseman in the country.

HAS WON HIS SPURS.

After all, the fellow who gets the Cutshaw chances and makes the most plays deserves the credit.

He had a good year last year, showed himself a capable assistant leader of a team and put a lot more ambition into his work, so that he deserves the lead.

It is odd to find New York and Chicago practically tied in value as to second basemen. The Cubs, however, have all the advantage, as Doyle certainly will not improve. He has slowed up a great deal from what he was in his best days.

The Cubs have a big chance to show an increase in their figure values. This Pick is a very promising youth, coming into his own after several rather disappointing tryouts.

PICK A GOOD ONE.

He made good last Fall and he has a lot of speed and pep which latter element never showed in his work during his earlier tryouts. He looks as if he has more confidence in himself and he knows better now how to utilize his speed.

I am figuring that Bill Wambsganss is in for a big year. His army experience certainly helped him a lot and before starting South for the Spring training he was fit and hard as nails.

Besides that, his job as a lieutenant did him good. It has poise and confidence and more talent for leadership than he had before.

The Red Sox will have more strength around second than they had last year with two capable men to relieve each other in case of need.

More tomorrow about the second basemen.

MARANVILLE SURE HE WILL PLAY APRIL 19

Rabbit Maranville, shortstop extraordinary of the Braves, is now at the Port of Spain, West Indies. He expects to be with the Boston and New York April 15; will be promptly discharged from the navy and is confident he will play in the two games Patriots' Day.

Leonard and Britton Again

Newark, N. J., April 1.—Benny Leonard and Jack Britton are as good as matched to meet in an eight-round bout before the Newark Sportsmen's Club the last week in April, Manager Dave Mackay announces.

CONGRESS ought to toss off a law putting the crimpers on war sculptors until the nation goes drier than a stuffed hoot owl.

It's all right for an artistic rock buster to be loaded with Beevo and other sorrows, but we don't want any granite mangler to chop out a twin to Barnett's Lincoln. One marble skeleton in a family is enough, especially when it's too big to go into a closet.

IF the jiggity jiggled chisel jobbers have got to get some sculpting out of their systems, make 'em sign the pledge. Here's some ideas for 'em:

ALIEN ENEMY—Heroic figure of fat alien cheering because he isn't allowed within one hundred yards of water. Bomb in each pocket and one behind each ear. Jaw should be fractured to show his perfect broken English.

PROFITEER—Life-size statue of clothing contractor about the size of an anaemic roach. Wearing one of his own raincoats. Statue must be on rollers, so that it can be taken in on rainy days.

BULLSHEVIKI TRIUMPHANT—Russian Red lurking in the rear of his own whiskers. He is throwing a bomb at a dish of spaghetti because it won't stay on his knife.

From Baseball Training Camps

GIANTS.

Gainesville, Fla.—Manager McGraw divided his squad again, sending the youngsters against the veterans. The regular members of the pitching staff—Schupp, Benton, Barnes and the others—are ready to go the full route. There is much interest in Schupp's showing and it is still doubtful whether or not his arm will stand the strain of steady pitching.

CUBS.

Pasadena, Cal.—Opposing base-runners are going to find it mighty hard to slide around the Cub infielders this year if Manager Mitchell has his way. Mitch has opened a school in spotted sliding and tagging of baseballers. Holocher, stellar shortstop, admits one outstanding weakness is his lack of skill in tagging base-runners, is the chief student.

PHILLIES.

Charlotte, N. C.—George Whitted has been appointed captain by Manager Combs and Fred Ludorus shifted back to the ranks.

CINCINNATI.

Waxahachie, Tex.—Manager Moran has his Irish up and is real angry because Uncle and League, his two Cubans, have given no excuse for not reporting. Eddie Roush's big salary demand is impossible, too.

WHITE SOX.

Mineral Wells, Tex.—Kid Gleason believes he has solved part of his biggest problem, viz.: the assembling of an adequate pitching staff. The showing of Dick Kerr, left-hander last year with Milwaukee, in the practice game with Fort Worth, has convinced Gleason that the rookie is good enough to win games in the American League.

DETROIT.

Macon, Ga.—The Tigers ate all the Winter sweepstakes George Stallings, manager of the Braves, had left on his 5,200-acre farm, twenty miles from here, and worked it off in a two-session training stunt. With the arrival of Rust and Dauss, all the veterans are in camp except Ty Cobb. He will report to Jennings at once point on the barnstorming trip to be made with the Braves.

ATHLETICS.

Philadelphia—The second week of hometraining for the Athletics began at Shibe Park. Tilly Walker has secured a lease of absolution and will not report until mid-April, while Merlin Kopp is to join the squad next week. Fred Thomas, secured from the Red Sox, was on third base for his first workout with Burns on first, Shannon on second and Dugan at short. Roy Grover, utility infielder, was due from Seattle, Wash., late today.

CLEVELAND.

New Orleans—George Uhle, the young pitcher who came to the Indians with a modest amateur record, looked good to Manager Speaker. The Indians probably will start the season with a big five including Stanley Coveleski, Bagby, Morton, Coumbe and Uhle.

YANKEES.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Miller Huggins' Yankees were in play the Dodgers today. The Brooklyns won the opening battle Saturday, George Halas, the recruit outfielder from the Great Lakes Training Station, continues to shine. Huggins is impressed with his speed, ability to judge hard hit balls and base running. He thinks also looks like a real hitter.

WASHINGTON.

Augusta, Ga.—Griffith's youngsters tackled the veterans today determined to do or die in an effort to wipe out the 13-10 defeat they suffered in their first clash. All hands are rapidly rounding into form. Of the pitchers, Harry Harper seems to be the most on the ball at present. If he continues to display the form he is showing, Walter Johnson will have to look to his laurels this year.

WHITMAN AND McLEOD ARE HARVARD CAPTAINS

Two Greater Boston boys have grabbed off captaincies at Harvard. Fred Whitman of Cambridge, bow, has been elected crew leader, and Willard McLeod of Malden, second baseman, baseball pilot.

CHICK SHORTEN EARLY RIOT IN TIGER CAMP

By NICK FLATLEY.

Columbus, Ga., April 1.—The Braves, being in perfectly good shape for this season of the year, we took a hurry-up jump over to Macon to look over the Detroit Tigers, who open a thirteen-game series with Stallings' squad Thursday.

We saw the Jungaleers practice and they play a four-frame exhibition game. They didn't have Tyrus Raymond Cobb, so, of course, didn't look very nifty.

Everybody else worth while, excepting Donie Bush, was present, however, and everybody knows just how good Donie is, anyhow—as good as they come.

It might be mentioned that Ty insisted to join the team over at Columbia, S. C., where the Braves and Tigers play next Monday. Wherefore it is proper to remark that the Tigers will be greatly handicapped for their first four games.

These Tigers are just the same team they were last year, and the year before, for the matter of that. They haven't any new pitchers worthy of mention, and they don't need much else.

JENNINGS IS CONFIDENT.

"I realize," declared Jennings to us, "that the American League has strengthened all along the line, but that doesn't stop me from expecting a real year. At least three of my pitchers are going to show something.

"Erickson this Spring is the best looking youngster I have ever handled, and Ehmke is in the same class. Boland, Cunningham and Dauss look ready, too.

"My infield, with Heilman on first all the time, and Bobby Jones on third, will be better than the shift squad I had a year ago. Heilman is the best righthand hitter in the game and will improve now that he can stay in one place regularly.

"Bobby Jones is as good a fielder as Vitt, and a much better batter. Sickness in his family prevented his showing at his best before, but he will be a real big leaguer this season.

"Chick Shorten has filled out my outfield to perfection and Ainsmith gives me a real star catcher to work with Stanage. I have a star infield utility man in Ellison, and a great outfield sub in Flagstead. Both can hit and field.

"I have strengthened, where I was weak, and, unless something happens, the Tigers will be right in the race from the start, and hitting that old ball harder than ever they did."

Lynn Y. M. C. A. Hill Boys' Club 41, Lynn Y. M. C. A. Rovers 37.

Fred Sateriale of Cambridge scored in the 115-pound class; Johnny Sullivan, South Boston, was best in the 135-pound class; Jimmy Moore of Roxbury went over in the 105-pound class, and Harry Silva of Boston won in the 158-pound class.

Penn Gridiron Star Back

Philadelphia, April 1.—Sergeant Bert Ball, captain-elect of Penn's football eleven for next Fall, has returned from France. He plans reentering the university at an early date.

City League for Fitchburg

Fitchburg, April 1.—A four-team City Baseball League is in course of formation.

Ringside's Selections.

Eddie Fitzsimmons to beat Joe Welsh.

Johnny Clinton to beat Eddie Moy.

Eddie Ford to beat Archie McDonald.

Phil Christle to beat Charley Brennan.

By RINGSIDE

Johnny Clinton and Eddie Fitzsimmons, Dumb Dan Morgan's pair of speedy steppers, are on at the Armory A. A.'s all-star show at the Grand Opera House tonight, and the fans who saw them a few weeks ago against Louis Bogash and Shaver O'Brien, are almost sure to string along with them to land top honors.

Clinton is matched with Eddie Moy of Philadelphia, who is very well thought of by Quakertown fistic fans, while Fitzsimmons opposes Joe Welsh, another Sleepytown product. Both set-tos are to go twelve rounds.

Welsh defeated Mike Devine, Washington's pugilism idol, in the semi-final to the Jeff Smith-Frank Carbone bout at Atlantic City, N. J., last Thursday night. This will be his first start in the Hub. Welsh is reported to own a bird of a left hand.

The preliminaries show Phil Christie and Charley Brennan and Archie McDonald and Eddie Ford.

DAN MORGAN'S PEPPERY PAIR ON DISPLAY

London Referee Favors Jimmy Wilde in Go with Joe Lynch

London, April 1.—Joe Lynch of New York appeared to have held his own with Jimmy Wilde, England's flyweight champion, in their fifteen-round bout at the National Sporting Club, but the referee decided in the home boy's favor.

Where the betting at the start was 3 to 1 in Wilde's favor, in the ninth it was even.

Lynch, who was some fifteen pounds heavier than Wilde, outhit the Britisher and there was much surprise when the referee declared Wilde the winner.

The Prince of Wales, Prince Albert and Lord Lonsdale saw the fight. After it was over the former shook hands with both boxers and congratulated them for their clean milling.

THREE KAYOS FEATURE BOUTS AT WAKEFIELD

Three knockouts featured the Wakefield A. A. amateur show. Young Duffy of Wakefield, and Joe Delmont and Young Wilkinson, both of Lawrence, were the boys flattening their foes. Harry Lavery of Charlestown defeated Young Jim Crilley of Lawrence, six rounds, and Buddy Dolan of Lawrence, drew with Eddie Harcelli of Quincy.

Last Night in the Ring

Syracuse, N. Y.—Young Fisher, Syracuse middleweight, and George Chip of New Castle, Pa., draw, ten rounds.

Portsmouth, N. H.—Walter Butler of Revere and Freddie Yelle of Taunton, draw, ten rounds.

Philadelphia—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland knocked out Johnny Mealey of Philadelphia, second round.

Buffalo, Me.—Dummy Burns of Brooklyn stopped Dave Powers of Malden, Mass., double six-rounder.

Pittsburgh—Harry Greb, Pittsburgh middleweight, shaded Billy Miske of St. Paul, ten rounds.

SCHOOLBOY SPORTS

EDWARD COHEN, EAST BOSTON HIGH, TOP NOTCHER IN SCHOOL SPORT.

EDWARD COHEN, 16 years old, is East Boston High's best athlete in the intermediate division. This lad specializes in the 220-yard run and generally is placed. He also plays football and baseball. He will finish up this Spring and next Fall will enter Tufts.

6—Artist, Bierman, Capt. Marchment.
7—Indiac, Whippoorwill, Great Dolly.

Most probable—HODGE.

Joseph J. and Joseph E. Flannagan are two of the heroes of the Boston College High Minims' track team. Both boys also played on the football eleven last Fall.

Thomas Geary has been elected captain of Arlington High's baseball nine. He has ordered the first practice for this week.

Eli Cohen, captain of the Melrose High nine, will be back at his old position at the initial sack. There are but two positions left to be filled, catcher and centre field.

Bill Sutherland, former star of Bridgewater Normal and a member of Bunkin Island's crack football team last Fall, has been appointed athletic director of Dedham High and Grammar School.

Sid Hynes, captain of the Rindge Tech baseball team, has six members of last year's team back on duty. As Rindge has not appointed its coach, Hynes will be in charge of the squad at the outset.

Captain Bradley of the English High nine has a tidy player in Mike Spillane.

Antonio Mauro, captain of the Weymouth High nine, has several veterans in the squad and anticipates a great season.

Reggie Nash, who has been appointed coach at Milton Academy, has several veterans around which to build his team.

Coach Morrill of Chelsea High will call out the candidates for the baseball team this week and expects a good sized squad to respond. Captain Francis Howe will do most of the pitching.

Captain Donovan of the Brookline High crew will have his men out on the river as soon as the weather permits.

WILLIE CORBETT FLATTENED BY HUGH RAMSEY

N. E. Amateur Champs.

108-pound class—James J. Moore, Roxbury.

115-pound class—Fred Sateriale, Cambridge.

125-pound class—Hugh Ramsay, Weymouth.

135-pound class—Johnny Sullivan, South Boston.

145-pound class—Joe Pangrase, Weymouth.

158-pound class—Harry Silva, Boston.

175-pound class—Al Roche, Somerville.

Heavyweight—Al Roche, Somerville.

Three of the New England boxing championships were won by Boston boys, and knockouts galore featured the big show in Mechanics Building.

Willie Corbett of Somerville, for several years 125-pound champion, was kayoed by Hugh Ramsey of Weymouth, in the final in that class.

Joe Pangrase of Weymouth brought another home to that town when he outfought Abe Layne, dusky Cambridge boy, in the final of the 145-pound class.

Somerville also won two championships, Al Roche, 175-pound and heavyweight titles being annexed by Al Roche.

Gordon Russell of Dorchester, "the millionaire kid," entered in the 175-pound and heavyweight classes, was treated to a lacing by Harry Pearl of Camp Devens in his bout in the former division. Roche later trounced the soldier boy.

In the heavyweight class, Russell forfeited to Billy Rush, who in turn forfeited to Roche.

FOUR-PLY SLAM BY McNALLY KAYO BLOW

By JACK CONWAY.

Tampa, Fla., April 1.—The Batter-ing Babes this morning told the world they were going to make it two straight over the Regulars.

They don't care who knows that they consider themselves the greatest collection of ball players that ever took a healthy smash at a baseball in this man's country.

Their 5-4 victory over the Regulars in the opening skirmish of a four-game series, has given them enough confidence to engage in a battle with a flock of hungry alligators.

Herb Pennock was expected to start in the box for the Regulars today. His port side slants should cause Ruth's outfit plenty of trouble, as most of Babe's warriors are left-handed batters.

SCOTT TO PLAY TODAY.

Scott, who was prevented by illness from taking part in the initial tilt, asserted he felt well enough to perform. All of which put Sean Jones in line to do a little twirling. With Scott out of the game, Jones pastimes in left field for the Regulars, with McInnis at short and Gainer at first base.

The air-tight pitching of Carl May was the outstanding feature of the first practice brush. He did sharpshooting for the Regulars four innings and allowed only a hit, a single by Shean. He put the opposition with goose-eggs.

Bush, who followed May, did not do so well. He was hit safely six times in three innings. A 3-run blow included a double, Shean's home run, it is easy to see. Battering Babes scored three runs.

Two of the tallies were made in the sixth inning, in the following way: McNally won the ball game by clouting a home run to deep right centre with two men on the base.

BARRY ON OLD STRIDE.

Ray Caldwell, who played the field for Babe's side, got a couple of hits. Moorefield, the rookie, improved he is a sweet batter who drove a triple to centre off Bush.

Barry played a fast game at second base and also got two hits. Shean showed well also, coming through with the only safe blow secured off Mays.

It is our and duty to chronicle the fact that Ruth failed to hit safely in three trips to the plate. He bounded out to Gainer, gave Strunk a fly and on his last time at bat was presented with a base on balls.

Walter Evans After Match

Captain Walter Evans, Brown's former wrestling instructor, who recently returned from overseas, has forwarded a forfeit to Promoter Tuohey to issue a challenge to meet the winner of Yokel-Ketonen championship match in the Grand Opera House Thursday night.

Voshell in Third Round

New York, April 1.—Howard Voshell, Frank C. Anderson, Gene Emerson, H. Hendrickson and Peter Ball survived the second round of match play in the National Indoor tennis singles championship tournament, 7th Regiment Armory.

Cleaning White Enamel

RUB all the dirty marks with a piece of flannel moistened with methylated spirit. Then wash the enamel with warm soapy water, dry and rub with a flannel sprinkled with whiting. Polish with a dry duster completes the process. White enamel furniture treated in this way from time to time retains its brightness for a very long time.

THE DARK STAR

THRILLING ROMANCE OF AN AMERICAN GIRL

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

One of the Newest and Best Novels of Intrigue, Love and War From This Famous Author's Pen, Full of Vivid Human Interest

Synopsis of the Story So Far

Ruhannah Carew, born in Trebizond, daughter of an American missionary, Reverend Wilbour Carew, accompanies her parents to their old home in Gayfield, New York State, after the father had been crippled by a Mohammedan fanatic. Her favorite amusement is playing with the wonder box of the late Herr Conrad Wilmer, a few pages of whose diary are always read by her father or mother to her as a bedtime story. The box contains treasures with which Rue plays and finds absorbing interest. She learns from the diary that Wilmer saw the box being dropped from a yacht in the Bosphorus and fished it up with the body of a beautiful girl sewn up a sack.

Wilmer, as an agent of the German government, makes plans for fortifying Gallipoli. The duplicates of these are stolen and he gets evidence that the Turks seek his life. He gives the box to Rev. Mr. Carew for safe keeping, with instructions to send the plans to Berlin in case he is killed. He is stoned to death, but Mr. Carew keeps the papers. Rue, as she grows up, longs to be an artist, but the family has only a pension and it is decided she must go to work. She meets Dick Neeland, who had known her as a child and who is now an artist. He dances with her and tells her of his success. She dreams of making a name for herself. Then through auto accident she meets Ed Brandes, a race track gambler.

"DON'T stay out long, Rue," she said in the doorway.

"No, mother."

Branden came back. Departing from his custom, he did not light a cigar, but sat in silence, his narrow eyes trying to see Ruhannah in the darkness. But she was only a delicate shadow shape to him, scarcely detached from the darkness that enveloped her.

He meant to speak to her then. And suddenly found he could not, realized, all at once, that he lacked the courage.

This was the more amazing and disturbing to him because he could not remember the time or occasion when the knack of fluent speech had ever failed him.

Silent and Disturbing

He had never foreseen such a situation; it had never occurred to him that he would find the slightest difficulty in saying easily and gracefully what he had determined to say to this young girl.

Now he sat there silent, disturbed, nervous, and tongue-tied. At first he did not quite comprehend what was making him afraid. After a long while he understood that it was some sort of fear of her—fear of her refusal, fear of losing her, fear that she might have heard things concerning him, his wife, his career. The idea turned him cold.

And all at once he realized how terribly in earnest he had become; how deeply involved; how vital this young girl had become to him.

Never before had he really wanted anything as compared to this desire of his for her. He was understanding, in a confused way, that such a girl and such a home for him as she could make OOO-ing not only to give him the happiness he expected, but that it meant betterment for himself to ev[illegible] brighter living, a up a greater thinking—the birth of [illegible]ing resembling self-respect, the [illegible] even aspiration—or at least [illegible]ration toward that respect he said [illegible]

He wanted her; he wanted her now; he wanted to marry her whether or not he had the legal right; he wanted to go away for a month with her, and then return and work for her, for them both—build up a fortune and a good reputation with Stein's backing and Stein's theatre—stand well with honest men, stand well with himself, stand always, with her, for everything a man should be.

If she loved him she would forgive him and quietly remarry him as soon as Minna kicked him loose. He was confident he could make her happy, make her love him if once he could find courage to speak —if once he could win her. And suddenly the only possible way to go about it occurred to him.

His voice was a trifle husky and unsteady from the nervous tension when he at last broke the silence:

"Miss Rue," he said, "I have a word to say to your father and mother. Would you wait here until I come back?"

"I think I had better go in, too ——"

"Please don't!"

"Why?" She stopped short, instinctively, but not surmising.

"You will wait, then?" he asked.

"I was going in. . . . But I'll sit here a little while."

He rose and went in, rather blindly.

Ruhannah, dreaming there deep in her splint armchair, slim feet crossed, watched the fireflies sailing over the alders. Sometimes she thought of Brandes, pleasantly, sometimes of other matters. Once the memory of her drive home through the wintry moonlight with young Neeland occurred to her, and the reminiscence was vaguely agreeable.

Listless, a trifle sleepy, dreamily watching the fireflies, the ceaseless noise of the creek in her ears, inconsequential thoughts flitted through her brain—the vague, aimless, guileless thoughts of a young and unstained mind.

She was nearly asleep when Brandes came back, and she looked up at him where he stood beside her porch chair in the darkness.

"Miss Rue," he said, "I have told your father and mother that I am in love with you and want to make you my wife."

The girl lay there speechless, astounded.

To Be Continued Tomorrow

The Dangerous Years

THEY FOLLOW THE SPRINGTIME OF LOVE

By Beatrice Fairfax

PERHAPS you recall a Pinero play in which Ethel Barrymore acted about seven years ago, called "Mid-Channel."

Its theme was the dangerous years of married life, the dull, monotonous time that sets in with late youth and early middle age. The stale, flat, unprofitable period that succeeds the first fine rapture of youth and springtime.

The playwright took his title from a rock, real or imaginary, situated in the English Channel, midway between France and England, and avoided by skilled navigators as a menace. The Pinero couple, like thousands of people in real life, foundered in mid-channel on the rock, the wife to die by suicide and the husband to realize, when too late, what would have saved the situation.

Young people, like the ill-starred couple in the play, start out on life's journey divinely happy—the trouble begins when they fail to renew their traveler's equipment. They expect to live on honeymoon and are amazed when they crave a change of diet. They are like the vaudeville actress who complained that the same old songs, dances and tricks—the public drifts away in search of newer attractions. And frequently the public is no more fickle than one's life partner.

Successful Marriage

Indeed, a successful marriage might be likened to that old reliable conjurer's trick where a couple of sleight-of-hand partners will keep half a dozen oranges, a lighted lamp, a banjo tossing back and forth in the air, owing wholly to balance and a nice sense of poise.

Marriage is likely either to go on the rocks or to drift until it is "becalmed" when the partners are too indolent or too indifferent to inject new interests into the old partnership.

"It is in looking for a new audience for old jokes that half the trouble begins," a wise woman once observed to me, and she continued: "I see a good play every week, and regard the money spent as part of the necessary household expenditure—it is treatment as a soap for Monday's laundry work or the roast for Sunday's dinner."

This same woman, by the way, regarded a good many other things as "essential family expenditure, among them was money for decent —not to say attractive—house dresses. She never wore at home clothes that had grown too shabby and slatternly for wear outside. She was not rich, only conscientiously economical, but these were some things she wouldn't take chances on, and among them was a frumpish appearance at home, and the other was becoming dull, heavy and unenlightened.

This lady had three sons and they thoroughly enjoyed her originality comments on current events. She read the papers, and she met them on their own ground, whether it was politics or baseball. She never let these boys feel that she was something immeasurably between an idiot and an angel. They appreciated her for what she was—an intelligent, sympathizing human being. And when the eldest was in college he wrote her every day or two, not gushy letters, but letters full of amusing college gossip, because he was eager for the bright replies she was sure to send.

The Crime of Being Bored

The one crime a man cannot forgive in that of being bored. He will forgive the breaking of all the commandments, he will forgive extravagance, he will forgive neglect, bad housekeeping, even untidiness, but when a woman begins to make him tired all the King's horses and all the King's men cannot keep him home.

The war salvaged thousands of deadly women—women who never read, never thought, never felt. They were dead souls who lived in a twilight world of self. But the war gave them occupation and purpose. You are amazed at the change in their appearances when you see them. What heart warming interest has made them look ten years younger.

Will they keep this precious legacy or will they relapse into this aimless old self—shopping when they do not intend to buy, complaining that nothing is the matter, "enjoying poor health" for the purpose of discussing their symptoms? These are the women whose husbands are an easy prey to the ever present "vamp."

The Uses of Sugar

By Brice Belden, M. D.

CANE sugar, the ordinary sugar of commerce, is a crude vegetable product not well adapted to human nutrition. Malt sugar, on the other hand, is an excellent food substance and should supplant cane sugar for table use.

Ordinary sugar, of which such a vast quantity is consumed by the public, acts as an irritant in the human stomach. Taken in tea and coffee, with cereals and in candies and preserves it is a potent cause of the indigestion which afflicts so large a proportion of the people.

The human system needs sugar, but can sugar cannot be classed as a wholesome foodstuff.

Cane sugar is apt to induce, even in healthy persons, indigestion, gastric catarrh, acidity and gouty affections.

Persons who suffer from acidity should give up the use of cane sugar. Its use by such individuals produces pain, distress, heartburn, canker sores in the mouth, gastritis and headache. Sour vomiting is often due to it.

Catarrh, of the stomach, or chronic gastritis, is aggravated as well as caused by cane sugar and cannot be cured unless the use of this substance is given up.

Intestinal catarrh follows upon gastric catarrh, and hence what we have said about cane sugar in the latter case also applies to the former.

Stomachs which are already dilated are further weakened by the gases generated by cane sugar.

In ulcer of the stomach cane sugar causes prompt pain, greatly aggravating the patient's sufferings. It probably is the cause of some of the cases of ulcer.

Candy made from ordinary sugar is especially injurious in the case of children. Their confectionery should be made of malt sugar.

Malt sugar is also known by the name of maltose.

Readjustment! To Conditions at Home

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1919, by International Feature Service, Inc.

NOW he's home—lots of him are (is?)—and everybody is talking about the strange period of "readjustment." They call it hard and difficult and say it's bristling with problems—and it is all that, but there's a lovely side to it, too. Nobody says anything about the "beautiful" side of it.

Here's one. There was mud over there, and men scattered around thick, but there was never a fellow's sweetheart! There were stars looking down on a lone sentinel, but there were no bright eyes looking back into a fellow's adoring own. There were bright, brave, stray flowers, crimson and velvety, but there were no sweet lips to touch with his own longing ones that kissed them last in a taste of tears. There was a little sun to warm a fighting man's heart, but there was no girl's bright laughter. There was Paris or Aix Les Bains for leave, with a girl to see—but it wasn't HIS girl. So you can see very well, with one eye shut and you don't need to be in the clover of Youth to do it, either, that there is one side to "readjustment to conditions at home" that is a blissful experience.

For the Easter Bonnet

By Rita Stuyvesant

EASTER time is bonnet time and what little girl under fourteen does not love the thrill of a new hat! The new bonnets this season are indeed lovely, for they combine bewitching styles with juvenile charm so essential to youthful millinery. If you cannot overlook the aspect of economy—and who can these days?—you can make a becoming bonnet at home for your small daughter that is sure to delight her. A bit of straw and a bit of silk and a few pretty flowers or fruits will conribute to a smart Easter bonnet.

A hat that was greatly admired at a children's bazaar recently for its charming simplicity was of milan straw and turquoise blue taffeta. It suggested a clever way of remaking a straw hat that was faded. A good-sized mushroom shape was chosen and the crown was carefully covered in two parts with the taffeta. Dark red cherries were strung all around with loops of black velvet ribbon hanging down at the back.

The little girl under ten will adore a quaint poke bonnet of fine net and dainty rosebuds. The net was soru and closely plaited about the crown. Two bands of narrow satin ribbon were drawn around the crown, placed about an inch apart and held to hold the plaits flat. Dainty frills of fine lace covered the short poke brim, and the under side was faced with sea-shell pink satin. Exquisite pink silk roses and ribbon streamers gave the finishing smartness to this pretty juvenile bonnet.

Girls in that delightful age known as the teens will find a tailored linen hat unusually becoming. Any shape, whether mushroom, poke or straight sailor, will lend itself agreeably to this type of hat. Perhaps a shape from last year that you found particularly pleasing may be recovered in linen for smart Spring wear.

Canary colored linen was used for a good-looking hat recently displayed in a smart children's shop. It suggested the mushroom shape, without being too pronounced, and showed a rather soft crown. The unusual feature about this hat that caused it exclusive was the white braiding on the crown, hand done, and the fine clever touch of syrup-brown velvet ribbon lending its tailored smartness to the crown.

For sports wear this model might be developed in pumpkin colored linen, lavender, lettuce green, bright carrot color, or any of the lovely apricot shades that are so popular this year.

The braiding is very simple to do, and is both a novel and economical trimming.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried cream, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little liquurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure liquurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little liquurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the liquurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing or have Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, tastes little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

When a Girl Marries

A NEW SERIAL OF YOUNG MARRIED LIFE

Ann Lisle Writes Interestingly of the Trials and Slight Jealousies of a Bride

By Ann Lisle

CHAPTER C.

Copyright, 1919, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"PAT lunches here almost every day—shall you mind if he walks in on us?" asked Carlotta Sturged, waving the waiter aside to serve our chicken Chinarge and artichoke.

"Is that why you brought me here—to see how I'd take a meeting with my brother-in-law? I asked, wondering if Carlotta meant to confide in me after all.

But Carlotta only leaned across the table and put her hand over mine.

"Anne Harrison," she said, "I liked you from the first. And you stood by me at the canteen the other day. You're a thoroughbred. And if I can ever do anything for you—why, name it. But in the meantime I want you to answer one question. Will you?"

"I'll try." I replied earnestly to her earnestness.

"Then, now, it's this: Do you see any harm in my being friends with Pat Dalton? He's married. I know, but he isn't living with his wife. Now, I don't see why he should be cut off from friends and companions while he's trying to find out what Mrs. D. proposes to make of the smashed-up bits of their lives. Do you?"

"Not when you put it that way," I agreed unwillingly.

Correctly Interpreted

Carlotta narrowed her eyes and tapped the fingers of one hand nervously against the back of the other.

"Evidently you don't believe in divorce. Well, you think—hope even—that if no one," she hastily corrected herself, "that if nothing comes between Pat—and—Alix Le Baine for leave, with a girl to see—but it wasn't HIS girl. So you can see very well, with one eye shut and you don't need to be in the clover of Youth to do it, either, that there is one side to "readjustment to conditions at home" that is a blissful experience.

"I'm afraid I stirred up a hornet's nest when I asked Pat to lunch with us," I said, "but I'll try to be nice to him. I'll do my best."

"Thanks awfully," she said, relaxing. "I'm sure you will. And I'll be nice to Mrs. Jimmie. Now tell me about her. Is she pretty?"

"Pretty enough," I said, "but not in the least my type. She's a dear, though, and I'm very fond of her."

"Then I'll be fond of her, too," Carlotta declared. "Is she here?"

"Not yet. She's coming on the next train. I'm to meet her at the station. Jimmie's motoring down with Tom Mason."

"Tom Mason!" Carlotta's eyes widened. "Why, I thought he was in Europe. Isn't he the man who was engaged to Lucy Ellis?"

"Yes, but that's all off. Lucy threw him over for a Frenchman with a title and a château. Tom's been in Europe ever since. He's just back."

"Poor Tom," Carlotta murmured. "I'm sorry for him. He was awfully nice. Is he still in love with Lucy?"

"I don't know," I said. "He's never mentioned her to me. I'm sure I hope not. She's not worth it."

"Oh, no—you know it isn't that, that, didn't I have tea with you?" I cried unguardedly, stupidly—and regretted on the very period to my words that I hadn't bitten my tongue out when I began the sentence.

"Tom and you—Pat and I. I chaperone you, you chaperone me," laughed Carlotta.

Tom Mason leaned forward, inclining his body toward me in the little intimate way he has of seeming to shut off the world and make it a place with room in it for only the two of us.

"A chaperone!" he chuckled. "A chaperone! But you can take tea alone with this scamp of a Pat here. A chaperone! That's more than your husband had when I saw him and a pretty little, snaky little Oriental brunette making the most of it. Old Hadley, when I stopped there for a cocktail before I met Pat."

Carlotta snickered.

"There's something sacred about marriage, Mrs. Jimmie. You said it. Come on, be a good fellow. You chaperone me—I chaperone you—and we beat the boys at their own game."

I rose, with sudden resolution that brought the men to their feet.

"Didn't I tell you when we met that I'd an engagement?" I asked, lying by implication even while I stayed just within the truth. "Well, I'm on my way to see Virginia. This was a delicious luncheon. I hope my Jimmie and his little secretary fared half as well—they're so busy they have to work even at mealtime."

"You're on your way to see Jessie?" murmured Pat Dalton, holding my hand in his as if he meant never to let go.

Then he flung it from him—and turned to the others.

"Well, that needn't keep us from spinning up the road—need it?"

But he didn't offer to take me to my destination in the new car.

Not Unarmed

Five-year-old Reggie had been caught in the act of telling a fib, so his mother, to drive home the lesson of truthfulness to the child, told him the tale of little George Washington and the cherry tree. She described young George's enthusiastic felling of the tree with his new implement, and the fateful arrival of his father on the scene. She pictured Augustin Washington as an elderly, stern and stately parent of the old school, with cocked hat and cane. She proceeded impressively:

"But George could not tell a lie. He told the truth, even though his father stood with the cane in his hand."

"But," said Reggie breathlessly, George had the hatchet, hadn't he?"

Burmese Novels

Although the production of books of all kinds fell off last year in Burma, as has been the case every year since the war began, and those whose interesting feature noticed, the increasing number of Burmese novels in the vernacular modelled after the pattern and dealing with modern Burmese life. They are written in language more closely akin to colloquial Burmese than to the stilted and high-flown literary diction generally used, and those who are conversant judge say that, though a satisfactory literary medium has not yet been evolved, the most recent productions show that a decided improvement has been made on earlier attempts.

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift them off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard-skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome and tiresome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, which a bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of mess.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

Stocks at Highest in New York in Afternoon

IND. ALCOHOL MAKES BIG GAIN

Rails Active and Strong at Midday; Leathers Early Market Leaders

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were at their top prices in New York in the afternoon. Gains in railroads were higher and coppers showed large gains. Steels, excepting Bethlehem, which was strongest, had advanced fractionally. Leathers were still up and oils were firm. Shipping shares were holding gains and motors had recovered. American Woolen common had come to the front. Industrial Alcohol made the largest advance, showing more than six points gain. While standard stocks had become more active, specialties remained the most interesting of trading features. Trading was of good volume and had breadth. During the morning Central Leather sold at its highest since 1917 and Hide & Leather preferred at its former highest record price. General Motors sold at a highest record price in the afternoon.

Buying of Marine issues was attributed to American International Corporation. There were also quite extensive pool operations in these shares. Strength of Hide & Leather issues accompanied rumors that its March earnings were very large. It is said that new interests are buying the common stock of this company. Leather stocks were the market leaders at the market opening.

GAINS IN THE AFTERNOON.

Gains in the afternoon included Anaconda 1¾ at 62½; Inspiration 1⅝ at 86½; Utah Copper 2 at 75; International Corporation 1¼ at 73½; Atlantic Gulf 1¼ at 117; Marine preferred at 115¾; Central Leather ⅝ at 77¾; Hide & Leather preferred 2 at 101⅝; common 1⅜ at 51; General Motors ¼ at 171¼, after selling at the highest record price of 173; Studebaker ⅛ at 64⅞; U. S. Steel ⅝ at 98½; Bethlehem B 1¼ at 70⅝; Baldwin 1¼ at 88⅝; Reading ½ at 84; Southern Pacific ⅝ at 103; Chesapeake & Ohio ¾ at 128⅝; St. Paul ¾ at 38½, and Industrial Alcohol 6⅜ at 149 after selling at 150.

Among declines were U. S. Rubber ⅞ at 83⅞, and Sinclair Oil ⅝ at 46⅞.

NO SWIFT STOCK DIVIDEND.

Irregularity marked the list in Boston at the opening, but issues to show some outnumbered those that declined. Packing issues continued to be the leaders. Swifts were active, according to a Chicago dispatch, no stock dividend has been declared by his corporation, nor has such a proceeding even been considered. One statement regarding recent strength in Swifts is that it would tend to shorts covering. Old Dominion, Osceola and Mohawk advanced a point each during the morning; but Calumet & Arizona coppers was insignificant. Inland Oil and Telephone were active issues.

Afternoon gains included Swift & Co. 1¾ at 139½, Libby ¼ at 36, United Fruit ⅜ at 145, Fairbanks 1⅛ at 115½, and Boston Elevated 1⅜ at 69¾. Among declines were American Telephone ¼ at 89½, West End ⅝ at 44½ and Swift International ¼ at 62¾.

SPECIALITIES WERE FEATURES.

The market opened steady with the majority of issues showing gains. Standard stocks were not traded in to any extent, interest being concentrated upon a number of specialties. Pool operations were largely responsible for this. Among issues to show large gains in the first hour were American Writing Paper preferred and Industrial Alcohol. Corn Products was active in response to dividend news, but declined. Bethlehem B was the leading feature of the Baldwin was first among equipments. Oils were fairly steady but inactive. Neither coppers nor tobacco was much in evidence. Kennecott was the most active in the group. The strongest issues as a whole were leathers and of the shares. The market had these same aspects as it had

It was professional-tive during the morning, gained upward gradually.

TION WAS BELLISH.

market tone was better today, the largely to news from Paris, peach" in peace proceedings was to be less serious than earlier it would indicate. Statements Washington regarding the government's present policy toward great industrial corporations pleased Wall st. High finance is of the opinion the administration tide is setstrongly toward private ownership of public utilities.

teel Production Increasing

Youngstown, April 1.—An improvement in the steel trade since April 1 has been reflected by orders received, it is declared by dealers. They are operating on a large schedule of about 75 per cent. of capacity. Three weeks ago they were operating at from 50 to 60 per cent. of capacity.

Less Gas Consumed.

There was less gas consumed in Boston last month, the output of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company for March totalling 551,690,000 cubic feet, a decrease of 4.7 per cent. as compared to the corresponding month of 17.

New York Sub-Treasury Loss

New York, April 1.—The sub-treasury lost $66,000 to the banks on Monday, making the cash net loss since Friday $1,802,000.

Dividend Declarations

United Drug declared regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on first preferred, payable May 1 to stock of record April 15.

The H. McElwain Company declared usual quarterly dividends of 1¼ per cent. on the second preferred stocks, payable May 1 to holders of record April 15.

NEW STYLE COTTON CONTRACTS OPEN HIGHER

New York, April 1.—For the first time since double trading commenced there were no transactions in old style contracts on the opening call of the cotton market today. New style contracts were fairly active and opened 10 to 29 points higher. Interest in the old style is gradually lessening, especially in the old crops.

The new style contracts at the end of the first twenty minutes were from points net higher on May, but 5 to 6 points lower on other positions. Opening prices were:

May, old, 24.35; new, 23.35; July, old, 23.25; new, 22.80; August, new, 21.85; September, new, 21.14; October, old, 20.51; December, new, 20.13; December, old, 20.00; December, new, 20.40; January, new, 20.20; February, new, 20.10.

HINES PREDICTS GREAT ERA OF PROSPERITY

Atlanta, Ga., April 1.—Predicting the greatest era of prosperity the United States ever has known, Walker D. Hines, director-general of railroads, addressed the President's Club of Atlanta at a dinner in his honor. Mr. Hines stated that it would be necessary to advance $370,000,000 to the railroads this year, and urged Atlanta business men to aid in convincing Congress that this amount should be appropriated. Mr. Hines announced that William G. McAdoo had accepted the office of director of finance for the railroad administration with headquarters in matters arising in the State of New York and is to serve without pay.

City Loan Offer

South Portland, Me., will receive bids to 7:30 p. m., April 15, for the purchase of $24,000 2-per-cent. bonds dated May 1, 1919, due May 1, 1939. Also bids on a temporary loan of $50,000, due October 1, 1919.

No Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, April 1.—The Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Stock Exchange were closed today because of the municipal election.

COPPER METAL TRADING IS RESUMED

Prices Firmer Because of Renewed Demand on New York Exchange

Trading in copper metal has been resumed on the New York Metal Exchange, with prices firmer and belief in the trade that they will continue to advance. A recent bid for Lake Copper named 12½ cents a pound for several carload lots, and the offer was refused. Copper will be exported for eighteen cents a pound, it is officially stated, and that is believed to be the price level at present for foreign business in the metal.

After President C. F. Kelley of the Anaconda Company returned from Europe with the Copper Export Association committee, he said that foreign stocks of copper are concentrated in the hands of the allied governments, while German and Austrian supplies are completely exhausted. Consumers in these countries are expected in the market soon. Business in the allied countries is being impeded by labor troubles and the transformation of industrial plants from a war to a peace basis. High prices also have interfered with consumption. He expects all difficulties to be satisfactorily adjusted soon and an active demand for copper.

"France and Italy," Mr. Kelley said, "have ambitious plans for electrification of railways and the conversion of industrial plants from electric power will be transferred to manufacturing and industrial centers. These plans, together with immediate necessity for replacement and rehabilitation of peace industries, will provide an enlarged demand for products of American mines. At a recent conference in London of managers of cable companies it was estimated that these corporations are short at least 20,000 miles of cables. They curtailed buying during the war because of high prices."

The firmness of the domestic copper market is doubtless due in a measure to the report of the Export Association committee, in the trade it is believed that European consumption of the metal will soon eliminate the surplus and create a demand for a record breaking foreign demand. Industrial expansion in this country also promises to tax mining capacity.

BRITISH COAL OUTPUT LESS AND COSTS HIGHER

Statistics as to coal production and costs in the United Kingdom indicate that England is losing some of the industrial advantages that enriched John Bull such a formidable competitor in foreign trade. The output of coal in the United Kingdom for the year ended January last was 226,700,000 long tons, a reduction of 20,000,000 tons from 1913, averaged $2.96 a ton, against $1.32 for the full year 1914. The average wage per machine ended June 30, 1918

HOTEL ESSEX UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The Hotel Essex, on which the proprietors of the Quincy House as the only organized Essex Hotel Company have taken a twenty-year lease, was turned over to the new management at one minute past midnight. There was no formality to the taking over of the 375-room house, the old management under Manager Reed simply relinquishing the keys to the new management. The Essex was built eighteen years ago at a cost of nearly $1,000,000. A formal opening will be held within a few weeks.

Gigantic Scheme of State Water Power Monopoly

Powerful Companies Already Far Advanced in Backing Bill Soon to Be Reported in Legislature

The adoption by the people, at the last State election, of nineteen amendments to the State constitution has forced upon the present Legislature greater responsibilities, and placed in its hands greater opportunities of good and evil, than any other single session has witnessed heretofore.

Of special importance to every citizen of Massachusetts is the use which the Legislature will make of the powers conferred by the second amendment, the natural resources amendment, so called, which authorizes the taking, by right of eminent domain, of any of the "agricultural, mineral, forest, water and other natural resources of the Commonwealth." When this amendment was pending in the Constitutional Convention a rumor was current that the proposed change, though ostensibly intended to prepare the way for public control of natural resources for the common advantage, was really being pushed in the interests of a gigantic scheme of water power monopoly. Present developments certainly indicate very strongly that the rumor had a solid foundation of fact.

The Legislative Committee on Waterways has long been considering and is about to report upon a bill fathered by Chairman Cole of the Recess Waterways Commission, whose lifelong corporation affiliations are well known, and who during the hearings has gone on record as one who "most emphatically hates to see State ownership of anything." If enacted in anything like its present form, the result will undoubtedly be the establishment of a gigantic water power monopoly which eventually will lay under tribute the manufacturing interests of all New England. It will create vested rights in our one remaining undeveloped natural resource—the wasted power of the Spring freshets—which will have to be acquired by the public sooner or later at a tremendously inflated cost.

As was pointed out to the committee by Mr. Nathan P. Avery, counsel of the Holyoke Water Power Company, the organization of the water power monopoly that is backing the bill is already very far advanced. Two great power companies, practically merged by interlocking directorates and interlocking stock ownership, already control the headwaters of the Connecticut and Deerfield rivers in Vermont, and are rapidly securing the power monopoly and control of all the New England States. A measure practically identical in its important features with the Cole bill is on its passage through the Vermont Legislature. If both become law the undeveloped and partially developed water privileges of western Massachusetts now independently owned will undoubtedly be forced into the combine, and similar legislation in New Hampshire a little later may be expected to extend the power of the new monopoly over the Merrimac river and Eastern Massachusetts also.

The undeveloped water power resources of New England are a tremendous asset. As the American has repeatedly pointed out, enough of the water now going to waste over the dams in the Spring freshets might readily be stored in Northern New England to equalize the seasonal flow of all our developed water powers and, in addition, as a by-product, to light our streets and buildings with cheap electricity, electrify our transportation service, and supply with cheap electric power every industrial plant now driven by steam.

The shrewd business men who are engineering this water power monopoly are well aware that, given the power to crush independent holdups by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, their control of this neglected natural resource is sure to yield enormous profits. They know also that either the nation or the several States could build the storage reservoirs as economically as the monopoly can build them, and that the public storage basins would then supply water and electricity at cost, in other words for half or less than half of what the monopoly would be allowed, judging from past and present experience, to charge by the public commissions which they propose to permit to "regulate" their charges.

The records of the members of the Waterways Committee, and the roll-calls in the Senate and House, on this tremendously vital issue should be carefully watched and remembered by the voters. If the present Legislature is so strongly imbued with Chairman Cole's prejudices against public ownership that it cannot bring itself to do the manifestly proper thing, it should at least defeat this dangerous measure and give the people a chance, either by the choice of wiser representatives or by recourse to the Initiative and Referendum, to secure this last great natural resource from private exploitation.

Abuse of Pairing Privilege

The defeat of old-age pensions in the House the other day incidentally brought to notice an abuse of the pairing privilege which has become chronic in recent years, in spite of a few sporadic attempts to apply a remedy. Members who are away on committee business have the habit, it appears, of giving the "whip" of their party carte blanche to pair them as he sees fit on any measure that may come to a roll-call vote in their absence.

This may be all well enough in the case of distinctively party measures, which are presumably known to be such by the representative's constituents because so stated in the party platform on which he was elected. Even as to such measures, however, the representative is in duty bound to use his individual judgment in passing upon the details, and, moreover, party issues are involved in only a small percentage of the bills that are considered every session.

A member who allows his vote to be used as a rubber stamp in cases where the party platform is silent is a poor tool to send to the Legislature—but, after all, he is only one degree more culpable than the average senator or representative who shirks committee hearings, pays little or no attention to floor debates, and finally votes as somebody in or out of the chamber has told him to do.

It will help a little if Speaker Warner adheres to his reported resolution to recognize no pair unless the absent member has personally asked to be so recorded on the particular measure under consideration. The greater evil is unfortunately far less easy to cure, though a closer scrutiny of roll-call records by constituents around election time might make such abuses as this a little less common.

THE COW AND THE DEACON

It has been discovered that fodder ferments in silos, thereby making cows too intemperate for their own good.—Rural news item.

When Deacon Bascom's cow began
To jazz instead of mooing,
The Deacon called the hired man
To find out what was doing.
For ponies oftentimes will prance
And need a lot of curbing,
But when a cow begins to dance
It's—so to speak—disturbing!

The hired man observed the cow
And did a bit of thinking,
Said he, "The heifer acts as how
She'd taken up with drinking;
She's havin' of a reg'lar tear,"
He added, with a snicker,
"My goodness, Gosh! I wonder where
The critter gits her liquor?"

That evening when the milk came up,
The deacon said he reckoned
That he'd set down and have a cup.
He did, and had a second.
And when the hours of the night
Gave way to those of morning,
The honest deacon was a sight,
And furthermore a warning!

The deacon's wife soon after found
The silo strangely scented,
And reached conclusions sure and sound,
The fodder had fermented.
The cow is still unduly spry,
Her gait is still unsteady;
But she'll be dry by next July,
The deacon's dry already!

IF I could write sermons.
LIKE ARTHUR Brisbane.
I'D WRITE a little story.
ABOUT A train I was on.
ALL THE way through Texas.
AND THERE came a storm.
AND A heavy rain.
AND A bridge washed out.
AND ALL night long.
OUR TRAIN stayed there.
ON THE plains of Texas.
AND IN the morning.
WHEN THE bridge was fixed.
WE WERE hours late.
AND WE hadn't been going.
BUT A little while.
WHEN WE went on a siding.
AND WAITED there.
FOR ANOTHER train.
THAT WAS running on time.
AND WHEN it had passed
WE STARTED again.
AND A little while later
WE GOT out of the way
FOR ANOTHER train.
THAT WAS running on time.
AND SO we went.
THROUGH THE whole long day.
AND WHATEVER of pride.
THERE HAD been in our train.
WHEN WE started out.
WE HAD lost it all.
AND THE spirit we'd had.
WHEN WE pounded along.
ON THE way to the bridge.
HAD DISAPPEARED.
AND SITTING there.
IN THE smoking room.
OF OUR Pullman car.
A WHITE haired youth.
WITH A Southern drawl.
AND BACK from the war.
LOOKED OUT of the window.
ACROSS THE sands.
AND THEN rose up.
AND STRETCHED himself.
AND SAID to the group.
"THIS TRAIN'S a bum."
AND SO it was.
AND WE likened it then.
TO THE men we had known.
WHO HAD started out.
IN THE pride of youth.
AND WHATEVER the reason.
THERE'D COME a day.
WHEN THEY had stopped.
ON THEIR onward course.
AND LIKE our train.
HAD BEEN compelled.
TO STAND aside.
WHILE THE fellows on time.
WENT HURRYING on.
BUT THAT is not all.
FOR IT happened.
THAT AFTER a while.
OUR BELATED train.
GOT THE right of way.
AND IT'S pride again.
AND HIT it up.
SO WE reached New Orleans.
PRETTY NEARLY on time.
WHICH ALL goes to prove.
THAT EVEN a bum.
CAN COME back again.

I THANK you.

Ireland

Prelates of Various Parts of That Country Demand That Erin Be Made Free

In the following symposium most of the Irish bishops deal with the attempt to deny Ireland her rights of nationhood, and some allude in strong terms to the hypocrisy, tyranny and Prussianism of the methods employed to keep her in subjection.

The views of Cardinal Logue and Bishop Fogarty of Killaloe were printed yesterday. Others will follow during the week.

(Copyright, 1919, by the International News Bureau, Inc., Boston, Mass.)

By Most Rev. Dr. McKenna

(Bishop of Clogher)

THOUGH months have passed since victory crowned the arms which were to establish everywhere the rule of right and justice, in our small nation, one of the oldest in Europe, might rules supreme.

The country is held, as in a vise, in the grip of a militarism worse than anything we read of that continental brand, to end which so much blood and treasure were lavished.

Almost daily we read of youths being arraigned before courts-martial or special courts and sentenced to long terms of severe imprisonment on trifling charges, sometimes nothing more serious than to have been discovered cycling in some kind of organized order to a football match, and to have given such proof of high military organization as to be able to dismount at a given signal without serious risk of collision and broken bones.

The Deportees

Many months ago hundreds of prominent and patriotic Irishmen were arrested, deported from their native land, and cast into English prisons, and during all the long weary months which have passed since then they are held in durance without any charge having been preferred against them. The only shadow of an excuse which has been given to the public for their arrest and imprisonment is some supposed German plot, of the very existence of which the English head of the government in Ireland publicly testified he never heard.

The continued incarceration of these men is a monstrous injustice and a disgrace to any people calling itself civilized, not to speak of the proud title to which it makes claim, of champion of right and justice everywhere.

Then, again, while our inalienable rights as a nation are unjustly withheld, the opportunity, up to the present at least, is denied us of even stating our case for the righting of our centuries-old wrongs before that tribunal which has been constituted to settle the world on the basis of liberty, justice and right. There are disquieting signs of the view taken by one of the great crusaders of her pledges to freedom, right and justice.

Yet, notwithstanding these evidences to the contrary, there are strong grounds for hope of an eventual general peace based on right and justice, in which our own nation will be a sharer. The consequences of disappointing the high hopes of peoples everywhere, that their unparalleled sacrifices and sufferings would be rewarded with such a peace would be too serious to be lightly faced by statesmen anywhere.

Prospects Improving

The unrest of the toiling masses, so universal and so menacing, cannot fail to impress upon statesmen the truth so plainly told them by the ablest and most far-seeing amongst them, the distinguished President of the United States, that they are but the servants and not the masters of the people, and if they run counter to the wishes of plain people everywhere they will be broken, and what is much more serious, will bring down in ruins around them the temple of civilization as we know it.

Then, as regards our own country, the prospects of sharing in such a general peace of justice and right are daily improving. The long-sustained, invidious efforts to misrepresent our motives and actions, to make it appear that we had become indifferent or even hostile to the cause of liberty, justice and right, have failed.

We still have many strong friends in the world. Our kith and kin in America, and indeed the whole American people, are putting up a splendid fight for justice for Ireland; so also are strong forces in Australia and the colonies.

We highly appreciate and are deeply grateful for these manifestations of warm friendship and strong support.

A Cruel Injustice

There has been in Ireland, as elsewhere, some regrettable incident of disorder, and a few isolated crimes for which no condemnation can be too severe, but if would be cruelly unjust to brand the people of Ireland as criminals or abettors of crime because of incidents, however deplorable and sad, for which they have no responsibility, and because of crimes which they loath and detest more sincerely than their calumniators.

It is only in Ireland that isolated crime forthwith becomes proof of national depravity, and its people as a whole, because of such isolated incidents, are held up to public odium throughout the world.

Words Are Dangerous Enemies Are Valuable Japan in Mexico Read Japanese History

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

"The Northwest Tribune" is started in Chicago with this excellent announcement:

"The Northwest Tribune starts with no friends and no enemies—and hopes to make both."

A newspaper with no friends does not amount to much. A newspaper with no enemies amounts to nothing.

Why is it that in court a lawyer can ask a witness any question he pleases, make it as insulting as he pleases, and with tears in his eyes appeal to the judge for protection, if the answer does not exactly suit?

In Mrs. McClure's divorce suit the husband's lawyer asks her: "Was Mr. White sitting on the edge of your bed in pajamas?"

The woman replies, "You know it is an invention."

The lawyer protests that the witness is rude.

Some day some judge will tell some lawyer that impertinence is as unbecoming in a lawyer, an officer of the court, as it is in a witness.

Words are dangerous, the Supreme Court decides in its refusing the last appeal of Eugene V. Debs for a rehearing. He must go to jail for ten years.

The judge seems to have been most deeply offended by the following words from Debs' speech of last June:

"The common people of the United States did not declare war. All wars are wrong."

As a matter of fact, practically all the people of the United States did declare war, in their minds, before war was declared by the President. There are few Americans out of a hundred million who believe that it was unjust to declare war, after the Kaiser had said to this country, "Send out your ships on the high seas and I will sink them for you."

Words are dangerous indeed. Since Debs made his speech that sends him to jail for ten years, many men have committed murders and have been punished less severely for killing than Debs for talking.

The trouble is that putting men in prison does not end the danger that resides in words. Nobody could have tried to curb speech with imprisonment more earnestly than did the Russian czars. Yet look at them. Speech proved more powerful than their prisons. That makes it so important to regulate dangerous speech, if you can.

Mexicans are said to have granted "agricultural concessions" to the Japanese, and the United States government is investigating this matter earnestly. Well it may.

"Agricultural concessions" for the Japanese would mean permission for Japanese to multiply and spread over Mexico, south of us.

Japanese children bred on Mexican concessions could not be drowned or sent back. They would travel, when they outgrew the concessions. It would not take long for the energetic, able and intelligent Japanese to establish a group of a million, then of twenty-five, thirty or fifty million on the fertile and now half-cultivated lands south of us.

Whoever doubts the ability of the Japanese to spread, conquer and crowd out the mixed populations of Mexico should read a little about the Mikado's enterprising sons, in the days when the Chinese historians contemptuously wrote about them as Wa, the dwarfs, and study them later, in the days when Wa, grown to be a military giant, beat huge China as easily as you would beat an egg.

No one knows just where the Japanese came from, who the intelligent people were that drifted over from the mainland, exterminated the natives, the Ainus, "men with sunken glances," or drove them North into the island of Yeza. But this is certain, the Japanese, able, enterprising, persistent, courageous, learning, first from China and from Korea, now from Europe, possess the power to supplant other peoples, and are amazingly prolific when food is plenty.

Without personal hostility, with respectful apprehension as to their superior ability, Americans may ask whether it is desirable to have a Japanese nation crowd out the Indian halfbreeds in Mexico, and then look to the North for more room?

There is still a great deal of room in Asia, unlimited, fertile, unused land in Siberia.

Those that think apprehension regarding Japan as a neighbor, exaggerated or unkind, might read something about the history of Korea. She thought she would do Japan a favor, and sent the Buddhist religion and the little statues of Buddha to civilize the Japanese. Later she paid tribute every year to the Japanese Shogun, and still later became a protesting part of the Mikado's dominions.
